West Is Offered Berlin Control If Troops Leave

Khrush Sends Proposal To Ike Through His Brother Milton

WASHINGTON (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has offered secretly to give the West German government control over West Berlin—with guaranteed access—in return for a pullout by the Western powers, it was reported Wednesday.

Informed sources said Khrushchev sent his proposal to President Eisenhower by way of Dr. Milton Eisenhower, the President's brother.

The Soviet leader, due to visit the United States for meetings with the President next month, reportedly outlined his plan to Dr. Eisenhower during a private talk. The sources said the talk was held while Dr. Eisenhower was in Moscow recently with Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

There was no immediate indication how President Eisenhower reacted. He has let it be known in the past he will listen to any new idea Khrushchev may put forward when they meet in mid-September.

Dr. Eisenhower, president of Johns Hopkins University and at times an adviser to his brother, was pictured as favoring the Khrushchev proposal. Some State Department officials were strongly opposed.

For about nine months, the Soviet Union and the Western Allies have been at loggerheads over the future of West Berlin, a free world island 110 miles inside Communist-ruled East Germany.

Khrushchev has demanded that the United States, Britain, and France withdraw their forces from West Berlin. The West has refused to do so, contending the Soviet aim is to absorb the city into East Germany.

Foreign ministers of East and West haggled for 10 weeks at Geneva this summer, but finally broke up without any measureable progress toward ending the impasse.

According to accounts of the talks between Khrushchev and Dr. Eisenhower, the Soviet leader denied any intention to draw West Berlin into the Soviet orbit.

Khrushchev reportedly said he wanted a peaceful solution of the dispute and would agree to the West German government taking over West Berlin, provided the Western Allies withdraw their forces.

Ike, M'Millan To Chat Over Radio And TV

GETTYSBURG, Pa.(AP)—President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan will chat informally over radio and TV Aug. 31 from No. 10 Downing St., the British leader's London residence.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said Wednesday the two are expected to speak for about 15 to 20 minutes before a dinner Macmillan is giving for Eisenhower that evening.

The broadcast will come just before Eisenhower winds up his Aug. 28 to Sept. 1 conference in Britain and flies to Paris for meetings with French President Charles de Gaulle. Eisenhower leaves Washington Aug. 26 for a day of conferences with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer at Bonn before he goes to Britain.

Newsmen at Eisenhower vacation headquarters here also got word of plans for the President to make a radio-TV appeal before Congress meets next January for legislation to reduce the cost of the wheat price support program.

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson met with Eisenhower and at a news conference afterward pictured the President as deeply concerned over mounting costs and wheat surpluses under the present program.

Benson said that unless Congress enacts the necessary legislation, the wheat situation will grow into what he called a fiasco worse than that created by potato and egg price support programs in 1950.

Wartime price supports on potatoes and eggs were cut off by Congress in 1950. Heavy losses set off an uproar in Congress and elsewhere.

Although he met with Benson and got in some other government work, it was a relatively quiet day for Eisenhower. He scheduled no news conference as he did here a week ago.

The President was out early on the golf course with his 11-year-old grandson, David, and George S. Allen, his frequent golfing companion who is a business executive and owns a farm near Eisenhower's.

Beer Party At Edgewood Brings Special Formation

EDGEWOOD, Md. (AP) — Because of a beer party, the Army uniform of the day at a special formation here Thursday will be no uniform at all.

Instead, nearly 400 scientific and professional personnel (S.P.P.) of the Army Chemical Center, have been ordered to fall out in civilian clothes.

The reason? To help witnesses identify some of the men who celebrated at a beer party near here last Thursday night. The soldiers were off duty and in civilian clothes at the time.

Edgewood officials received complaints that obscene songs and statements uncomplimentary to Army life were featured at the beer bust.

The order recalled an October 1958 party which resulted in drunk and disorderly conduct charges brought against a group of S.P.P.s. the drunkenness charges were dropped but 11 men were reduced in grade and fined $25 for disorderly conduct after hiring a civilian lawyer who unsuccessfully took the case to the Pentagon.

Like last Thursday's party, the 1958 celebration was held at an inn on civilian property and involved enlisted men of college background.

An Army spokesman said the new investigation had been ordered by Brig. Gen. Harold Walmsley, commander of the highly secret Edgewood installation.

"No formal charges have yet been placed by the Army against any of the participants," the spokesman said.

He added that civilian witnesses complained some of the 60 or so Army celebrants were "noisy, profane, vulgar and unruly" in the presence of women.

Figures Show Rise In Steel Wages, Profits

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government turned loose a mass of figures Wednesday to show that in the strike-closed steel industry, wages, prices and profits have been going up for years.

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell made the statistics public at the direction of President Eisenhower in the hope this would lead the striking Steelworkers Union and the steel companies to bargain harder for a settlement.

But Mitchell refused to say a word about what he thought either side should do in the way of give and take.

"There are no conclusions drawn (from the figures)," he said. "The responsibility for a settlement of the strike rests upon management and labor."

He did point out the public has an interest in the strike, which has been going on for 36 days, costing each week 300 million dollars worth of production and 70 million dollars in wages.

Mitchell presided over a news conference in the gold and green conference room of the Interdepartmental Auditorium. But he gave few concrete answers to the several hundred newsmen poring over the collections of figures, charts and textual matter.

He did say, in reply to a question as to when a national emergency might result from the strike that this could occur by the latter part of September or early October.

By then, Mitchell said, very serious shortages in steel would begin to appear. He said the effect so far has not been serious from a national standpoint.

Philip Arnow, assistant commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, discussed the charts with the aid of lantern slides and a flashlight indicator.

Some of the main things displayed, or explained:

Wages—"Gross hourly earnings in steel rose $1.43 or by 85 per cent, from January 1950 to May 1959. Real hourly earnings rose by 50 per cent.

"From January 1950 to the summer of 1959, steel wages as a whole rose by greater percentages and by greater absolute amounts than wages in most of the economy.

"In terms of average hourly earnings, steel wages are higher than those in most other industries. The May average of $3.10 in the steel industry compared with $2.23 in manufacturing as a whole, $2.68 in automobiles."

Prices—"Prices of basic steel products are at peak levels. Steel prices have risen higher and faster than wholesale prices in general and much more than retail prices.

Profits—"In the three years 1955, 1956 and 1957, combined, the 20 largest steel companies had a rate of return of net worth of 12.8 per cent, compared to 14.7 per cent for the 25 largest industrial firms in the nation.

Searchers To Hunt For Quake Dead

Prepare To Tackle Huge Dirt Slide; Survivors Rescued

WEST YELLOWSTONE, Mont. (AP)—All known survivors of the Montana earthquake were brought out Wednesday as searchers prepared to tackle a 50-million-ton mountain slide to find out how many died beneath its rock and dirt.

A hunt for bodies will be made, too, in waters into which the quake-loosed mountain tumbled.

Eight bodies have been recovered since the quake rocked the southwestern part of the state late Monday night.

On the basis of eyewitness reports, the toll could go to at least 13. The search of the landslide and the waters of Hebgen Lake and Madison River could send it still higher.

Half a dozen persons say they saw an automobile occupied by a man, a woman and a crippled child buried by the avalanche. Their bodies have not been recovered.

Home Washed Away

Sheriff Donald Skerritt said the lakeside home of Mrs. Grace Miller, about 60, was washed away in the middle of the night by waters surging under the impact of the landslide. He said she was almost certain to have been in it.

Mrs. Thomas Stowe of Sandy, Utah, whose husband perished, is missing and presumed dead.

Other reports of survivors indicate bodies may yet be found under the avalanche and in the water.

A car and trailer slid into the lake behind Hebgen Dam. Skindivers are hunting for bodies.

Survivors at the Rock Creek campground reported seeing five cars and 10 trailers covered by the slide. They said they had no idea how many, if any, people were in them.

Among the bodies recovered were four members of the F. R. Bennett family of Coeur D'Alene, Idaho. The 43 - year - old father, daughters Carole, 17, and Susan 5, and son, Tom, 11, died. The mother, Irene, and 16-year-old son Phillip were injured.

Scores of persons were injured. At one time 34 were hospitalized.

It may be days or weeks before the landslide in the still quivering vacationland can be explored sufficiently to establish the death toll.

"It is presumed that some people may have been buried by the large land mass which slipped into Madison Canyon," said A. E. Zion of the Montana State Highway Department.

Explore River Holes

"The slide is approximately one-half mile long and a minimum of 150 feet deep at the lowest point and approximately 300 feet at a point over the road."

Skindivers were brought in to explore deep river holes where bodies might be submerged.

All known survivors—about 300 persons—have been brought out of Madison Canyon, where they were trapped between damaged Hebgen Dam and the landslide.

Eight "smoke - jumpers" who usually are fighting forest fires, leaped into Madison Canyon and gave first aid and assisted in evacuation.

Capt. A. S. Champion of Hamilton Air Force Base, Calif., commanding the air rescue operation in the quake area, says the aerial search of most of the area has been completed. Helicopters are skimming over slide areas checking for stragglers.

Progress Seen On Labor Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate-House conferees reported more progress Wednesday in working out a compromise labor control bill. But they have yet to tackle the principal issues in dispute.

These issues, involving secondary boycotts, picketing, and federal-state jurisdiction over labor-management controversies, may be reached late Thursday, Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill) reported.

Agreeing, Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz) said that if the conferees find by Friday or Monday that they will be unable to agree on these points, he thought this would be reported to the Senate.

Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass), chief sponsor of the Senate bill, said more progress than he expected had been made toward reconciling the differences between the House and Senate bills. But he said he did not believe it would be possible to work out a compromise version before next week.

Fight Fire Aboard Wasp

Crew members pull a portion of a helicopter as a stream of water is played on it as they prepare to push it overboard following a fire aboard the U. S. Navy aircraft carrier Wasp. Two men died and a score of others were injured in the fire which was caused by an explosion. (AP Photofax)

Two Dead, 21 Hurt In Wasp Explosion

QUONSET POINT, R.I. (UPI)—The fire-scarred aircraft carrier Wasp limped into port Wednesday with two crewmen dead, 21 injured, and tales of heroism following a blazing explosion at sea.

The 27,000-ton flagship of task force Bravo reported the accident Tuesday night, a few hours after it happened. Wednesday she tied up to a dock at this naval air station and newsmen came aboard.

Rear Adm. Robert J. Stroh, task force commander, said quick and heroic action by the crew averted a "major catastrophe" after the engine of a helicopter in No. 1 bay "ran away" and blew up. A smoky fire spread almost instantly and gutted the bay.

Damage was expected to run to millions of dollars. The vessel cost 100 million dollars, including renovations.

The Navy identified the dead as Lt. (jg) Jim Frank Hagan of (Route 1, Box 56) Marianna, Fla. and airman apprentice Donald Howard Trask of (164 Elm St.) Keene, N.H. The Navy said Hagan was near the helicopter when it exploded, while Trask was "asphyxiated" in the No. 1 elevator shaft while fighting the fire there.

None of the 21 injured was reported in serious condition. By the time the vessel docked, all but two had been released from sick bay.

Cmdr. Harvey Dunning of Jonesport, Maine, assistant air officer, was one of the first men in the fire area and ordered "foam fog laid down. Fire crews dragged hoses into the compartment despite the smoke. It was pretty bad in there and the men handled themselves well."

Lt. Cmdr. B. Donald Mischeff of Providence, R.I. said he and five or six others were in a storage cage just above the fire scene and jumped 12 feet to the deck "landing right in the middle of the fire."

"We crawled out of the smoke and flame area," he said. "There wasn't even time for doubt or to be afraid. While we were crawling I could hear some screams in the fire area but I still don't know who it was."

Child, 3, Lost 3 Days, Found

MANCHESTER, Ky. (UPI) — A three-year-old Kentucky girl was found alive and in good condition Wednesday, three days after she was reported missing from her rural home.

He said when the search party came upon the chubby little girl she was sitting under the tree, in a hollow covered with greenbriar patches so thick she could not be seen until they were almost upon her.

More than 2,000 persons assisted in the search for the little girl.

Steven Buys Anne A Zither

KRISTIANSAND, Norway (AP) —Steven Rockefeller bought his Norwegian financee, Anne Marie Rasmussen, a wedding present Wednesday—a zither.

"She can play it," Rockefeller said proudly, "and we are going to take it with us on the honeymoon."

More wedding presents arrived late in the day, brought from the United States by four former college friends of Rockefeller, son of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York. The four friends will act as ushers at the wedding next Saturday. They declined to say what the presents were.

Steven and Anne Marie drove drove into Kristiansand unannounced from her home at Sogne and went to a music store. The word quickly spread and a crowd gathered in front of the store. Some came into the shop. The street filled with spectators and police were called to clear the jam.

"Too much publicity," Anne Marie protested. The store was cleared and the doors locked while Rockefeller bought the zither, some sheet music, and a phonograph record for his bride-to-be.

Airliner Hits Peak In Spain, 32 Aboard Die

BARCELONA, Spain (AP) — A chartered airliner crashed into a mountain peak Wednesday in a dense fog, killing all 32 persons aboard. Most victims were vacationing British students.

The plane burned after smashing head on into the 2,400-foot high Peak of Man 25 miles northeast of Barcelona. Flames drove off rescuers who rushed to the scene from a nearby weather station.

The plane, chartered by the British National Union of Students, crashed minutes after taking off from Prat de Llobregat Airport for London.

There were at first conflicting reports on the exact number of passengers aboard, but authorities said the passenger list showed there were 21 British students returning home from vacations in Spain.

The three crew members—pilot, copilot and stewardess—also were British.

The British victims were 12 men and 12 women, officials said.

Others were a German, two Iranians, an Irishman, three Spaniards and a Malayan.

Hysterical Indiana Co-Ed Claims She Was Attacked

HALLANDALE, Fla. (UPI) —A pretty Indiana co-ed, missing all night, ran into her father's home at dawn, screaming hysterically that she had been dragged into an automobile and raped by a Negro man.

The 18-year-old girl said she had escaped her attacker and hidden four hours behind a service station in fear he would kill her.

The Broward County sheriff's department threw every member of the department into a huge manhunt for a Negro believed driving a late model automobile.

Medical Examiner R. K. Haugen examined the girl and said his check was "inconclusive."

But Chief Criminal Investigator Ben Grigsby, heading the investigation, said "I have to believe her story." He said his department had been able to check out several parts of her story.

Grigsby said the girl went on a date Tuesday night and did not return. He refused to identify her escort on the date.

He said she told this story:

She argued with her date in his car near her father's house. She left his car and started to walk home. A Negro man yelled to her from a car and she started to run. The Negro caught her and dragged her into the car.

The Negro drove to a rock pit north of Hallandale Beach Blvd. and raped her in the car. He got out of the car then and she ran. Her purse flew open and some of the contents spilled out.

Grigsby said investigators found her cigaret lighter near the rock pit," "tending to verify her story."

Air Force Will Try To Nab Capsule

Tracking Stations Follow Course; Will Orbit For 30 Days

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—The Discoverer VI satellite zoomed into orbit Wednesday carrying a capsule the Air Force hopes to snatch from the air as it parachutes earthward near Hawaii Thursday.

The 1,700-pound satellite was caught by tracking stations in Alaska as it was completing its first circuit of the earth. It was launched at 12:20 p.m.

The Air Force said it was circling the earth's poles once every 95 minutes and is expected to stay in orbit at least 30 days.

Egg-Shaped Path

Following an egg-shaped path through the skies, it comes within 138 miles of earth at its closest point and goes as far out as 537 miles.

Radio signals are loud and strong, the Air Force said, indicating that the satellite is stable in orbit.

In Sunnyvale, Calif., Maj. Gen. O. J. Ritland, commander of the Air Force Ballistic Missile Division and Herschel Brown, general manager of Lockheed Aircraft's Missiles and Space Division, said in a joint statement: "The successful orbiting of two Discoverer satellites in less than a week marks a tremendous forward step in the scientific study of space vehicles and their applications.

"It is indicative also of the accelerating pace of U.S. activity in the space field. Through the information and experience gained in the Discoverer series the Advanced Research Projects Agency, the Air Force and Lockheed rapidly are preparing the way for launching of the first man in space."

Lockheed makes the Discoverer second stage rockets. The entire second stage is supposed to orbit.

Study Techniques

One of the aims of the Discoverer series is to study techniques of sending man into space and back.

The Air Force faces staggering odds in its planned aerial capsule recovery try.

If all goes right the capsule would descend on a parachute, sending out radio signals to indicate its whereabouts. A squadron of C119 Flying Boxcars would go after it, and try to snatch it with trapeze-like contraptions attached to each plane.

Such a catch was planned last Friday, the day after the successful launching of Discoverer V. But the radio beacon in the capsule apparently went haywire. Planes waiting to try the catch never got any signals.

Such a recovery never has been made.

A hunt for bodies will be made, too, in waters into which the quake-loosed mountain tumbled.

Eight bodies have been recovered since the quake rocked the southwestern part of the state late Monday night.

On the basis of eyewitness reports, the toll could go to at least 13. The search of the landslide and the waters of Hebgen Lake and Madison River could send it still higher.

Half a dozen persons say they saw an automobile occupied by a man, a woman and a crippled child buried by the avalanche. Their bodies have not been recovered.

Home Washed Away

Sheriff Donald Skerritt said the lakeside home of Mrs. Grace Miller, about 60, was washed away in the middle of the night by waters surging under the impact of the landslide. He said she was almost certain to have been in it.

Mrs. Thomas Stowe of Sandy, Utah, whose husband perished, is missing and presumed dead.

Other reports of survivors indicate bodies may yet be found under the avalanche and in the water.

A car and trailer slid into the lake behind Hebgen Dam. Skindivers are hunting for bodies.

Survivors at the Rock Creek campground reported seeing five cars and 10 trailers covered by the slide. They said they had no idea how many, if any, people were in them.

Among the bodies recovered were four members of the F. R. Bennett family of Coeur D'Alene, Idaho. The 43 - year - old father, daughters Carole, 17, and Susan 5, and son, Tom, 11, died. The mother, Irene, and 16-year-old son Phillip were injured.

Scores of persons were injured. At one time 34 were hospitalized.

It may be days or weeks before the landslide in the still quivering vacationland can be explored sufficiently to establish the death toll.

"It is presumed that some people may have been buried by the large land mass which slipped into Madison Canyon," said A. E. Zion of the Montana State Highway Department.

Explore River Holes

"The slide is approximately one-half mile long and a minimum of 150 feet deep at the lowest point and approximately 300 feet at a point over the road."

Skindivers were brought in to explore deep river holes where bodies might be submerged.

All known survivors—about 300 persons—have been brought out of Madison Canyon, where they were trapped between damaged Hebgen Dam and the landslide.

Eight "smoke - jumpers" who usually are fighting forest fires, leaped into Madison Canyon and gave first aid and assisted in evacuation.

Capt. A. S. Champion of Hamilton Air Force Base, Calif., commanding the air rescue operation in the quake area, says the aerial search of most of the area has been completed. Helicopters are skimming over slide areas checking for stragglers.

Progress Seen On Labor Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate-House conferees reported more progress Wednesday in working out a compromise labor control bill. But they have yet to tackle the principal issues in dispute.

These issues, involving secondary boycotts, picketing, and federal-state jurisdiction over labor-management controversies, may be reached late Thursday, Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill) reported.

Agreeing, Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz) said that if the conferees find by Friday or Monday that they will be unable to agree on these points, he thought this would be reported to the Senate.

Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass), chief sponsor of the Senate bill, said more progress than he expected had been made toward reconciling the differences between the House and Senate bills. But he said he did not believe it would be possible to work out a compromise version before next week.

Fight Fire Aboard Wasp

Crew members pull a portion of a helicopter as a stream of water is played on it as they prepare to push it overboard following a fire aboard the U. S. Navy aircraft carrier Wasp. Two men died and a score of others were injured in the fire which was caused by an explosion. (AP Photofax)

Two Dead, 21 Hurt In Wasp Explosion

QUONSET POINT, R.I. (UPI)—The fire-scarred aircraft carrier Wasp limped into port Wednesday with two crewmen dead, 21 injured, and tales of heroism following a blazing explosion at sea.

The 27,000-ton flagship of task force Bravo reported the accident Tuesday night, a few hours after it happened. Wednesday she tied up to a dock at this naval air station and newsmen came aboard.

Rear Adm. Robert J. Stroh, task force commander, said quick and heroic action by the crew averted a "major catastrophe" after the engine of a helicopter in No. 1 bay "ran away" and blew up. A smoky fire spread almost instantly and gutted the bay.

Damage was expected to run to millions of dollars. The vessel cost 100 million dollars, including renovations.

The Navy identified the dead as Lt. (jg) Jim Frank Hagan of (Route 1, Box 56) Marianna, Fla. and airman apprentice Donald Howard Trask of (164 Elm St.) Keene, N.H. The Navy said Hagan was near the helicopter when it exploded, while Trask was "asphyxiated" in the No. 1 elevator shaft while fighting the fire there.

None of the 21 injured was reported in serious condition. By the time the vessel docked, all but two had been released from sick bay.

Cmdr. Harvey Dunning of Jonesport, Maine, assistant air officer, was one of the first men in the fire area and ordered "foam fog laid down. Fire crews dragged hoses into the compartment despite the smoke. It was pretty bad in there and the men handled themselves well."

Lt. Cmdr. B. Donald Mischeff of Providence, R.I. said he and five or six others were in a storage cage just above the fire scene and jumped 12 feet to the deck "landing right in the middle of the fire."

"We crawled out of the smoke and flame area," he said. "There wasn't even time for doubt or to be afraid. While we were crawling I could hear some screams in the fire area but I still don't know who it was."

Child, 3, Lost 3 Days, Found

MANCHESTER, Ky. (UPI) — A three-year-old Kentucky girl was found alive and in good condition Wednesday, three days after she was reported missing from her rural home.

Oscar Ferrell, 37, coal miner and father of 13 found little Inez Cox under a fallen beech tree at Cave Branch, in the Portersburg area.

He said when the search party came upon the chubby little girl she was sitting under the tree, in a hollow covered with greenbriar patches so thick she could not be seen until they were almost upon her.

More than 2,000 persons assisted in the search for the little girl.

Steven Buys Anne A Zither

KRISTIANSAND, Norway (AP) —Steven Rockefeller bought his Norwegian financee, Anne Marie Rasmussen, a wedding present Wednesday—a zither.

"She can play it," Rockefeller said proudly, "and we are going to take it with us on the honeymoon."

More wedding presents arrived late in the day, brought from the United States by four former college friends of Rockefeller, son of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York. The four friends will act as ushers at the wedding next Saturday. They declined to say what the presents were.

Steven and Anne Marie drove drove into Kristiansand unannounced from her home at Sogne and went to a music store. The word quickly spread and a crowd gathered in front of the store. Some came into the shop. The street filled with spectators and police were called to clear the jam.

"Too much publicity," Anne Marie protested. The store was cleared and the doors locked while Rockefeller bought the zither, some sheet music, and a phonograph record for his bride-to-be.

Mill Fakes Strike To Evade Taxes

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The Treasury Ministry says a large local textile mill has been faking a strike for two years to evade taxes. In charges against the Textiles Royal firm, the treasury claimed the company since 1957 had ostensibly been closed. Inside, the treasury charged, more than 250 employes have continued busily at work.

Air Force Will Try To Nab Capsule

Tracking Stations Follow Course; Will Orbit For 30 Days

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—The Discoverer VI satellite zoomed into orbit Wednesday carrying a capsule the Air Force hopes to snatch from the air as it parachutes earthward near Hawaii Thursday.

The 1,700-pound satellite was caught by tracking stations in Alaska as it was completing its first circuit of the earth. It was launched at 12:20 p.m.

The Air Force said it was circling the earth's poles once every 95 minutes and is expected to stay in orbit at least 30 days.

Egg-Shaped Path

Following an egg-shaped path through the skies, it comes within 138 miles of earth at its closest point and goes as far out as 537 miles.

Radio signals are loud and strong, the Air Force said, indicating that the satellite is stable in orbit.

In Sunnyvale, Calif., Maj. Gen. O. J. Ritland, commander of the Air Force Ballistic Missile Division and Herschel Brown, general manager of Lockheed Aircraft's Missiles and Space Division, said in a joint statement: "The successful orbiting of two Discoverer satellites in less than a week marks a tremendous forward step in the scientific study of space vehicles and their applications.

"It is indicative also of the accelerating pace of U.S. activity in the space field. Through the information and experience gained in the Discoverer series the Advanced Research Projects Agency, the Air Force and Lockheed rapidly are preparing the way for launching of the first man in space."

Lockheed makes the Discoverer second stage rockets. The entire second stage is supposed to orbit.

Study Techniques

One of the aims of the Discoverer series is to study techniques of sending man into space and back.

The Air Force faces staggering odds in its planned aerial capsule recovery try.

If all goes right the capsule would descend on a parachute, sending out radio signals to indicate its whereabouts. A squadron of C119 Flying Boxcars would go after it, and try to snatch it with trapeze-like contraptions attached to each plane.

Such a catch was planned last Friday, the day after the successful launching of Discoverer V. But the radio beacon in the capsule apparently went haywire. Planes waiting to try the catch never got any signals.

Such a recovery never has been made.

Airliner Hits Peak In Spain, 32 Aboard Die

BARCELONA, Spain (AP) — A chartered airliner crashed into a mountain peak Wednesday in a dense fog, killing all 32 persons aboard. Most victims were vacationing British students.

The plane burned after smashing head on into the 2,400-foot high Peak of Man 25 miles northeast of Barcelona. Flames drove off rescuers who rushed to the scene from a nearby weather station.

The plane, chartered by the British National Union of Students, crashed minutes after taking off from Prat de Llobregat Airport for London.

There were at first conflicting reports on the exact number of passengers aboard, but authorities said the passenger list showed there were 21 British students returning home from vacations in Spain.

The three crew members—pilot, copilot and stewardess—also were British.

The British victims were 12 men and 12 women, officials said.

Others were a German, two Iranians, an Irishman, three Spaniards and a Malayan.

Tar Bombs Thrown At U.S. Embassy

BUENOS AIRES (AP) —Some 400 demonstrators, cheering Cuba and its Prime Minister Fidel Castro Tuesday night threw several tar bombs on the building where the U.S. Embassy is situated.

The marchers then went to Mayo avenue leading to the Congress building, but were dispersed by police.

The newspaper "La Nacion" said the demonstrators were leftist university students.

Hysterical Indiana Co-Ed Claims She Was Attacked

HALLANDALE, Fla. (UPI) —A pretty Indiana co-ed, missing all night, ran into her father's home at dawn, screaming hysterically that she had been dragged into an automobile and raped by a Negro man.

The 18-year-old girl said she had escaped her attacker and hidden four hours behind a service station in fear he would kill her.

The Broward County sheriff's department threw every member of the department into a huge manhunt for a Negro believed driving a late model automobile.

Medical Examiner R. K. Haugen examined the girl and said his check was "inconclusive."

But Chief Criminal Investigator Ben Grigsby, heading the investigation, said "I have to believe her story." He said his department had been able to check out several parts of her story.

Grigsby said the girl went on a date Tuesday night and did not return. He refused to identify her escort on the date.

He said she told this story:

She argued with her date in his car near her father's house. She left his car and started to walk home. A Negro man yelled to her from a car and she started to run. The Negro caught her and dragged her into the car.

The Negro drove to a rock pit north of Hallandale Beach Blvd. and raped her in the car. He got out of the car then and she ran. Her purse flew open and some of the contents spilled out.

Grigsby said investigators found her cigaret lighter near the rock pit," "tending to verify her story."

Rep. Thompson Says He Was Acid Victim

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Frank Thompson (D-N.J.) said Wednesday he was squirted from a truck with what he believed was acid. He blamed it on a crank, but some congressmen linked the incident with Thompson's work on labor control legislation.

The fluid burned a hole in Thompson's shirt and left a small burn on his shoulder when he threw up his arm to protect his face. He did not seek medical treatment.

He said the panel truck darted into traffic before he was able to get a good look at the two white men he said were inside.

The attack occurred Tuesday morning while Thompson was driving to the Capitol from his home in nearby Alexandria, Va.

He told newsmen the truck stopped beside his car when he was halted for a light near Capitol Hill. He said he first saw the truck a few minutes earlier while crossing a bridge across the Potomac River.

As Thompson related it, the man sitting next to the truck driver seemed to laugh at him before leaning over and squirting fluid from what looked to be a syringe.

Police said Thompson told them it was possible he had angered the men in the truck by inadvertently cutting in front of them in traffic.

The FBI took a sample of fluid from the side of Thompson's car and planned tests to determine what it was. The car's paint was marred.

First reports of the incident came from some of Thompson's fellow House members.

He confirmed those reports, but said "I think much too much has been made of it." He said he felt the attack was the work of a crank. He said he had been threatened two or three times in the past, but never considered it serious.

Patrolman Shot To Death By Political Worker

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (UPI)—A Mississippi highway patrolman was shot to death Wednesday and police arrested a campaign worker for gubernatorial candidate Ross Barnett in connection with the shooting.

The suspect and the victim were cousins.

Sheriff Ford Vance said Patrolman H. L. Duckworth, 40, was shot in the motel room occupied by Thomas B. Gambrell, 33, a Jackson, Miss., lawyer. Vance said Gambrell told him "the gun was in my hand when Duckworth was shot."

Gambrell was charged with murder.

Two Fishing Boats Collide, Crewmen Saved

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI)—Two commercial fishing boats collided at sea Wednesday off the Southern California coast, but the Coast Guard reported one craft was in no danger and had taken aboard crewmen from the second vessel.

The Coast Guard said a two-engine rescue plane dropped two life rafts to help keep the 45-foot Storm King afloat. At least two men were aboard when the ship left port, in addition to two or more aboard the 52-foot Billie B.

The two crafts collided 240 miles west of here.

'Copter Recovers Three Bodies Of Alpine Climbers

ZELL AM SEE, Austria (UPI)—A helicopter crew recovered the bodies of three young Austrians from snow-covered Wisebachhorn Mountain Wednesday, bringing to six the number of dead in Sunday's sudden snowstorm.

Search parties found the bodies of Hannelore Hechelberger, 16, Josef Mally, 20, and his brother, Wolfgang Mally, 19, all of Linz. A helicopter brought the bodies down from the rugged Grossglockner region of the mountain.

Three other young tourists were found dead Tuesday and three were hospitalized with severe injuries.

Hodge Yearns "To Get Out"

MENARD, Ill. (UPI) — Orville E. Hodge, who stole more than 2 million dollars of the state of Illinois' money, ended his third year in prison Wednesday night yearning "to get out."

Hodge, once state auditor and the free-spending golden boy of Illinois politics, is now the popular disc jockey of Menard State Prison.

He is serving a 12 to 15 year sentence and cannot hope for parole until November, 1963.

The once-affable politician would not talk to a reporter who visited him on the anniversary of his conviction.

"Everyone in here wants out," convict Hodge gritted. "I have nothing to talk about."

Then he hurried off to show movies starring evangelist Billy Graham to patients in the prison's psychiatric division.

Governor Resigns

CAIRO (AP) — Egypt's official Middle East News Agency said Wednesday that Maj. Gen. Ahmed Saleh Abdi, a leading anti-Communist, has resigned as governor general of Iraq. Gen. Abdi has been entrusted with enforcing martial law. The agency attributed the report to well-informed sources which it did not identify.

Red China's Loss Of Face May Cause Laos Uprising

HONG KONG, (AP) — Red China's loss of face over Quemoy adds to the world's danger from a Communist uprising in Laos.

Mao Tze-tung perhaps sees in that little landlocked nation a chance to regain prestige his armed forces cast away in wholesale barrages over Formosa Strait last year.

Peiping took a trimming propagandawise when its big guns failed in months-long bombardment — launched last Aug. 23—to bring the Nationalist Chinese garrisons of offshore Quemoys to their knees.

The United States, which Peiping called a paper tiger, had a hand.

American-made artillery bolstered the defenses. The U.S. 7th Fleet convoyed Nationalist supply ships and patrolled the strait between the Red mainland and Formosa, the bastion of Chiang Kai-shek.

Peiping's early boast that it would wrest away the islands came to naught and the offshore war reverted to its old pattern of desultory exchanges that left the decision as far off as ever.

During recent trips to Southeast Asian nations I have been told by dozens of persons that the United States' firm stand over Quemoy dispelled doubts of American strength and willingness to stand by its partners in a showdown.

The United States, however, would find it harder to make a showing in Laos. It has no combat forces immediately available there, as there were in Formosa last year.

Laos is a pro-Western constitutional monarchy of three million people and 89,000 square miles, largely mountain and jungle.

It is flanked on the north by Red China's Yunnan province and on the northeast by Communist North Viet Nam, which the Laotians accuse of training and equipping the battalions of Red guerrillas now challenging the government in Phong Saly and Sam Neua provinces.

The Chinese Communists cannot well afford another prestige defeat. Therein lies the danger. For North Viet Nam is their protege and Radio Peiping is taking an increasing propaganda hand in the Laotian border war.

Advertisement Merger Planned

NEW YORK (AP)—Five major independent newspapers teamed up Wednesday in a joint venture aimed at getting a bigger slice of the national advertising dollar.

The five big dailies—the Boston Globe, Milwaukee Journal, Philadelphia Bulletin, St. Louis Post-Dispatch and Washington Star—will form a jointly owned national advertising sales organization.

The new group, to be known as "Million Market Newspapers Inc.", will swing into action Jan. 1. It will solicit national advertising for its owners.

Announcing plans for the joint enterprise at a news conference here, Irwin Maier, publisher of the Milwaukee Journal, said: "We're in this thing to make it work. This is not an experiment or a trial."

Irwin said too many publishers and editors "Have been running around to the advertising agencies and asking: 'What's wrong with the newspaper business?" . . . I think we've got to get back on the ball and sell our virtues instead of exaggerating our faults."

The five papers have a combined net paid circulation of 2,090,956 daily and 2,490,481 on Sunday. Last year their advertising linage totaled 206,294,000 lines—a figure described by one of the participating newspaper executives as far below their true potential.

Polish National Tells Of Voyage

Editor's Note — Last July 5 a heavily-bearded sailor, his blue eyes contrasting with a face burned nearly black by the sun, steered a battered 25-foot sailing cutter into New York harbor, 84 days out of Tangier. A 37-year-old Polish national he flew with his countrymen in the Polish unit of the RAF during World War II and has worked for the past five years for the U.S. Information Service in Tunis. He crossed the ocean alone in hopes of winning a girl. Here's his own story of the voyage.

By Christopher de Grabowski

Sunday, April 12, was a clear bright day at Tangier and the famous Levanter, an easterly wind, blew strong and steady. I had been sitting with a group of friends. Now it was time to go, and I just rose and went on board.

That's how I started an adventure few men have accomplished —a lonely Atlantic crossing from North Africa to New York.

Dusk was falling when I sailed out of the Straits of Gibraltar. I looked west for a long time at the endless expanse of water, and at the moment I realized the mighty distance between my dream and me.

Now, safe in New York, I have been asked the questions invariably put to the sailor who makes a long, hazardous voyage alone. Why did you do it? How did you sleep? Did you have any storms?

The answer to the last question is always yes, the second is also easy: you sleep whenever you can. But the first question is more complicated.

In my case, there was a dream —the dream of a girl I had met on the other side of the ocean in Philadelphia. In winning over the sea, I thought I might win or forget her.

A week out of Tangier, a heavy thumping noise brought me quickly on deck. Through the open hatch I saw a sight I feared most—the bow of a ship towering over my stern.

"She missed me!" was my first, grateful thought. Then I saw the ship's name — "Tourgenev," a Soviet whaler. She was dangerously close. "Are you all right?" the captain boomed from the bridge.

"I'm all right, thank you," I shouted back, as our ships were drawing apart.

It was my only encounter of this sort. I ran southwest for three weeks. A long time, but I hardly dared think of New York yet. I had become part of my ship—a 25-foot cutter named the "Tethys"—in a little world of my own, quite independent and self-supporting. A wonderful sensation.

The tropics and favorable trade winds were just a week or so away. I was anxious to get there but most disappointed when I finally reached the area. The wind shifted to the southeast, it was hot and squally.

My 39th day at sea was full of excitement. To start with I was nearing the halfway mark—three days later I passed this imaginary line. Then I discovered with pleasure that I was putting on weight. It served me well, for toward the end of the voyage I began to lose at the rate of a pound a day.

That night I did not sleep at all. For some days past, the North African and European radio stations had begun to fade and I had ceased to tune in. That night I switched on my ship's small, waterproof radio. For a long while there was nothing at all. Then I heard a voice, faint and distant, but clear: Radio Demerara, British Guiana, a voice from the other side, at least!

I spent the whole night listening. Brazil came through, Puerto Rico, Trinidad, Montevideo, Caracas, a whole new world was opening up and I was fascinated. And then toward the early morning I heard my first United States broadcast: A New Orleans station was on the air. A supreme moment, this. I knew I was getting somewhere.

My 70th day at sea went by. Ten full weeks alone. I was, by then, well in the horse latitudes. Gray sea, ugly, stormy, sometimes flat, and rain, rain, rain. I had nothing more to read and defended myself the best I could from the depressing effects of solitude. Bermuda radio came on the air and I was tempted to alter course to sight the islands just to see land for a brief moment. But I resisted.

The Gulf Stream was unpleasant and carried me off my course. All that time I talked with myself and my many problems grew in my mind to proportions I could no longer control. There was no one to say: "Don't be silly, man, it is not so!"

Things moved fast from then on. I slept very little. I ate practically nothing. I began to count the miles and I took frequent sun sights to be sure of my position. I decided to make my landfall at Cape May, the entrance to Philadelphia.

The afternoon of July 2 was hazy and I did not expect to be able to sight land until complete darkness would show the loom of a city. I came on deck at 11 p.m. and there was Atlantic City some 25 miles away.

I headed north along the coast. I stayed on deck all night, of course, and when the morning of that fifth day of July came I was there, at Sandy Hook, 84 days out of Tangier.

Before me lay my goal, the end of a voyage undertaken to win a girl or to forget her.

So far I've achieved neither. The challenge I faced and conquered alone in the Atlantic failed to push her from my mind. Since my landing, I have seen her, talked to her—but failed to win her hand.

Hawaii Lawyer Says War Was Aid To Career

HONOLULU (AP) — Danny Inouye considers World War II the turning point of his life.

"To be exact," he says, "the turning point was the last time I was wounded. That was in April, 1945, in Italy. I had started out to study medicine. Then, after I lost my right arm, it became impossible."

Instead, Inouye turned to law, and this in turn propelled him to a remarkable political career in Hawaii.

In just under five years, after three terms in Hawaii's Legislature, Democrat Danny Inouye was elected to the U.S. Hosse of Representatives—the first person of Japanese ancestry ever named to Congress.

Inouye's election last month made history in other ways, too.

Slender, about 5 foot 8 in height, Inouye proved to be the all-time champion vote-getter in Hawaii by piling up 111,733 votes against his Republican opponent—who lost by a margin of better than 2 to 1. Inouye not only led the Democratic ticket by far, but became the first candidate in Hawaii to receive more than 100,000 votes.

At 34, Inouye was the youngest candidate for major office in Hawaii's first state election.

His victory was scored in an election which saw Republicans capture three of the five top offices at stake and make their best showing in five years.

"I am deeply grateful," Inouye said after the votes were counted, "for the privilege of being the first U.S. Representative from the new, sovereign state of Hawaii.

"I do not consider my election as a personal victory. I consider it a victory of the people of diverse ethnic backgrounds that make up the population of Hawaii.

"I am determined to do my share, small though it may be, to make Hawaii a bridge of understanding and tolerance between the Western and the Asiatic worlds."

And then, speaking on election night over a Honolulu radio station, Inouye added:

"I'm a little scared."

Being scared seems an unusual reaction for a man with Inouye's war record.

He was wounded in action fosr times. For valor and leadership, he received 15 decorations and citations including the Distinguished Service Cross—one of America's highest awards—the Bronze Star and the Purple Heart with clusters. He was cited for knocking out three German machine gun nests and leading in a final assault despite grave injuries.

Inouye fought with the 442nd Regimental Combat Team in Italy and France. This was the outfit which gained fame as the "Go for Broke" regiment made up entirely of Americans of Japanese ancestry.

Shortly before the new congressman was to leave for Washington a reporter remarked that whether he liked it or not, Inouye would be looked on in Congress as an expert on Asia.

Inouye, a baseball-and-hot dogs American, said with a smile: "I've been doing some homework on Asia. Several professors at the University of Hawaii have been selecting books for me."

Two Boys Admit Setting Fire To Churches

BALTIMORE (AP)—Police said Wednesday that two boys, aged 10 and 12, admitted setting fires at four churches because they "liked to see the fire engines run."

According to Lt. John Schriefer of suburban Dundalk police, the boys started the blazes on the spur of the moment. The damage was at churches of four different denominations.

Lt. Schriefer said the boys were being charged with delinquency. They also were questioned at headquarters about three other fires in the general area last week.

Most heavily damaged was Dundalk Methodist Church where a fire was set in the basement and gutted an auditorium before working up the walls. Other churches damaged were Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, Dundalk Presbyterian and St. Rita's Catholic.

Federal Agents Grab Six With Marijuana Load

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Federal narcotics agents and local officers arrested a dozen Negroes, seized a half-ton of raw marijuana just brought in from the fields, and declared Wednesday that a multi-million dollar dope ring had been broken up.

Walter W. Anderson of Raleigh, director of the State Bureau of Investigation, said it was "the biggest operation of its kind I have seen in my 30 years in law enforcement."

Arrests were made in Cumberland County and at Garner and Raleigh in Wake County, beginning at 11 p.m. Tuesday night.

One of those arrested, Allen H. (Hub) Johnson of Hope Mills, led officers to an abandoned four-room house officers said was stacked with freshly harvested marijuana.

Lewis Williams, special agent of the State Bureau of Investigation, estimated the cache would weigh 1,000 pounds. He said Johnson told him he had pulled the marijuana from the fields a week ago and was "waiting for it to cure out" before processing it.

Officers said the narcotic plant was grown in Cumberland County and deliveries made to "pushers" — retail outlets — in New York City, Baltimore and other large east coast cities. They said the operation had been carried on several months.

Anderson said a pound of marijuana brings about $100 on the wholesale market and much more in individual sales.

POTOMAC, Md. (AP)—Western Breeze Farm, a 175-acre estate owned by Raymond H. Norton, is being sold for a reported price of $500,000.

Frank J. DeFrancis, a Washington attorney, said the purchaser is Arthur A. Desser, president of the Lefcourt Realty Corp., New York. He said he plans to take over the property, near Rockville, in about a month.

The attorney said he believes Desser intends to continue operating Western Breeze as a residential estate.

Desser also is president of Desser & Garfield, which is building an 8,000-acre community, Linda City, near Waldorf in Charles County, Md.

School Heads Protest Cut In Federal Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—School superintendents from California, Oklahoma and Maryland Wednesday protested administration proposals to cut federal aid to schools in areas crowded by government workers.

They were Ralph Dailard, San Diego city schools; Oscar V. Rose, Midwest City, Okla., and C. Taylor Whittier, Montgomery County, Md., schools just outside Washington.

They testified before a House Education subcommittee against the administration's bill to cut about 61 million dollars a year from the payments to school districts affected by the children of parents connected with federal activities. Such federal payments now run about 224 million dollars a year.

Dailard said he wants to provide the best education possible to the 100,000 school children in San Diego "and you can't do that with this kind of monkey business with a sound law."

Whittier testified the proposed cuts would mean a reduction of $803,261, or 41.9 per cent, for Montgomery County schools.

Man Is Found Unconscious On Neighbor's Steps

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — A 38-year-old man was admitted to an Annapolis hospital Wednesday after he was found unconscious and bloody on the steps of a neighbor's house at nearby Woodland Beach.

Anne Arundel County Police identified him as Robert H. Johnson. They asked Jamestown, N.Y. police to notify his wife, believed to be living there.

Police said they first thought Johnson was the victim of a hit-and-run driver but later discovered he was bleeding internally and had not been in an accident. They said he lived alone at Woodland Beach.

Officials at Anne Arundel General Hospital listed Johnson's condition as serious. They said he had hemorrhaged because of an illness, which they did not identify, and not because of any injury.

Why "The 5 Pennies" IS A WONDERFUL MOTION PICTURE

During my years in the amusement industry I've seen many pictures . . . I believe I've learned what is good . . . I believe "The Five Pennies" is not only good . . . it's a wonderful picture!

I say this because "The Five Pennies" has a wonderful story—a true story, the story of Loring "Red" Nichols and his fabulous band of "Five Pennies". Who were the "Five Pennies"? They were Glenn Miller, Benny Goodman, the Dorsey brothers, Gene Krupa, Jack Teagarten, Louie Prima and many other musical greats who got their start in the "Five Pennies."

It's a very happy picture with a very wonderful mixture of laughter and tears (Yes, tears even came to my hardened eyes a couple of times!) liberally sprinkled with the happy magic of Dixieland music as only Danny Kaye and Louis Armstrong can do it.

But . . . it is the story of "Red" Nichols as a husband and father that really got me. It has real "family" drama . . . how his little girl grew up in an atmosphere of jam-sessions, Dixieland and bright lights . . . his happy-go-lucky climb to fame . . . and how at the peak of his popularity he threw his golden trumpet off the Bay Bridge in San Francisco and disappeared from the world that knew him. Years later he returned to triumph again with his horn and at last the world learned what he did, where he went, and why he left . . . and this is the most fascinating and moving part of his story—truly a great story!

But to sum it all up, the reason I think "The Five Pennies" is a wonderful picture is that it affected me as no other picture has done before; mostly because it has drama . . . a great cast that seems to be so real, a little girl steals your heart . . . music that is magic . . . and color right from life.

Sincerely,
Foster Liederbach

Don't be caught off guard when someone snaps a casual picture of you! Learn this Powers Girl pose.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Pointers For Posing

Learn the Powers Girl routine for posing on all types of precarious perches, and your picture album from now on will be something you'll be proud to show. Furthermore, you'll be admired as a picture of grace at any party, no matter where crowded conditions force you to light. The first big secret lies in the realization that there's nothing floppy or unstudied about such apparently casual poses. To be effective they must be as carefully tailored as your casual clothes.

The second big secret is the trick of sitting sidewise (so that your knees are out of the center of focus) and putting all your weight on the hip and thigh that is away from the camera in order to prevent any bulges from weight pressure in the leg nearest the camera. Let me break it down for you:

Assume that you are going to have your picture taken posing on your porch railing.

1. Turn your entire body in profile to the rail. (Let's say it's your left side that you turned to the rail.)

2. Raise your left thigh until it finds a firm seat along the rail from hip to knee.

3. Hook the tip-toe of the left foot just below the calf of the right leg and pull both legs back as far as they will reach comfortably. If the right foot touches the floor, rest the weight of the legs on the inside of the big toe. Otherwise(point the toe toward the floor.

4. Square your shoulders toward the camera.

5.Pull your waist up hard out of your hips.

6. Hold your back erect.

7. Place the left hand on your left knee and hook your right thumb in your belt.

If you tilt the top of your head a fraction to the left; look at the birdie and smile, what a thrill you will have, the next time you see pictures that were snapped of you while posing "casually."

They are Leo Joseph Carter Jr., 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo J. Carter Sr., 8 Railroad Street, Lonaconing, and Robert William Bailey Jr., husband of the former Helen Rinker, 26 Maple Avenue Keyser.

Maid Pulls Alarm At Nurses Home

Firemen from three stations responded yesterday when an alarm was pulled at the Memorial Hospital Nurses Home.

Firemen from Central Station sent Engine No. 1 and the hook and ladder truck, South End sent its engine and West Side filled in at Central.

The alarm was accidently pulled, firemen said, by a maid who was dusting around the fire box.

Man Jailed For Stealing Prize Sweater

A county fair blue ribbon served a rare purpose yesterday in Trial Magistrate Court when it gained admittance to Allegany County Jail for a 29-year-old Oregon man.

Ralph Tilley, who gave his address as Fort Oxford, Oregon, was handed a 10-day sentence by Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt, who found the ex-serviceman guilty of stealing a homemade knitted sweater, valued at $40.

The clothing article was awarded first prize this week by judges at the Great Cumberland Fair now being held at Fairgo.

Tilley was arrested about 3:30 a.m. yesterday by City Police Officer Joseph Harvey and Trooper Willis Foreman of the Maryland State Police who found the man asleep in a wrecked auto on Spoerl's Mechanic Street lot.

Upon investigation, police found the sweater in the man's duffle bag, still bearing the blue ribbon.

Tilley came to Cumberland from North Carolina after traveling across the country, and had worked several days for Amusements of America, Inc., whose shows appear on the Fairgo midway. It was brought out at the hearing that Tilley had served time in a federal reformatory.

A rain forest is one in which the annual rainfall totals 100 inches or more. The forests occur mostly in the Amazon valley of South America, parts of west Africa and some of the Pacific islands.

Vandegrift Gets Building Permit

The City Engineering Department yesterday issued a building permit to Frank Vandegrift, a former resident, for the construction of a service station and parking lot.

Vandegrift, who resides in Kansas City, will construct the station at 135-139 North Mechanic Street. The estimate cost is $4,500.

The lot fronts 208 feet on Mechanic Street and 94 feet on North Centre Street. Marcellus Donehoe, LaVale, is listed as the contractor.

The department also issued a building permit this morning to Charles W. Redinger of 407 Caroline Street.

Redinger said he will construct a home on Hill Top Drive with the estimate cost at $7,500.

The kindergarten was made an integral part of the public school system of St. Louis in 1872. This is claimed to be the first time a city took that step.

Vandegrift Gets Building Permit

The City Engineering Department yesterday issued a building permit to Frank Vandegrift, a former resident, for the construction of a service station and parking lot.

Vandegrift, who resides in Kansas City, will construct the station at 135-139 North Mechanic Street. The estimate cost is $4,500.

The lot fronts 208 feet on Mechanic Street and 94 feet on North Centre Street. Marcellus Donehoe, LaVale, is listed as the contractor.

The department also issued a building permit this morning to Charles W. Redinger of 407 Caroline Street.

Redinger said he will construct a home on Hill Top Drive with the estimate cost at $7,500.

The kindergarten was made an integral part of the public school system of St. Louis in 1872. This is claimed to be the first time a city took that step.

Demos To Air Presidential Primary

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) and Gov. Tawes will confer here soon, undoubtedly to discuss a Democratic presidential preference primary in Maryland.

Kennedy announced Tuesday in Washington he has accepted an invitation to confer with Tawes and that he would come here as soon as Senate business permits, probably in two to three weeks.

A leading contender for the Democratic presidential nomination, Kennedy has appeared interested in testing his chances in Maryland.

Tawes is cool to the idea. He has said he wants to keep the Maryland delegation to the Democratic convention uncommitted, thereby permitting it to bargain at a strategic moment.

Kennedy met in Washington Tuesday with Maryland's new elected Democratic state chairman, Thomas B. Finan, and former Baltimore mayor Thomas D'Alesandro.

The Massachusetts Democrat said the matter of the presidential preference primary was discussed. However, he said he would make no announcement on entering the contest until he decides whether he actually will seek the party's presidential nomination.

He said he would make a final decision by the end of the year.

After the meeting, Finan, who was hand-picked for the party chairmanship by Tawes, said he considered Kennedy "definitely one of the top contenders" for the Democratic nomination.

D'Alesandro's comment indicated more open support. "He'd make a good candidate," said the former Baltimore mayor.

Finan said he has not discussed possible invitations to Annapolis with other Democratic possibilities because Kennedy is "the only one who has indicated he is interested in Maryland."

County Gets Report On Interest Gain

Commissioner John Tucker Mason received a letter Tuesday from the Second National Bank stating a total of $1,875 interest has accrued from the investment of $100,000 of county money in a U. S. certificate of indebtedness.

The $100,000 is part of the $2,000,000 which the county has invested in short-term government securities. The $1,875 interest is part of the money which will be received from the U. S. certificate as the maturity date is not until February, 1960.

The county's investment matures in $100,000, $200,000 and $300,000 lots at various times during the year. This was arranged so the costs of the county government could be met as they arose.

Two Boys Drown

LONDON (UPI)—Alfred Myers, 11, and Frederick Davis, 9, were drowned in the Thames River Tuesday in full view of hundreds of persons who thought the boys were cooling off and not fighting against death. The boys went into the river at Tower Pier near the Tower of London one of the most dangerous areas in the Thames.

State Fiscal Head Warns About Surplus

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Maryland Legislature's chief fiscal watchdog has warned that the state should eye cautiously the fat surplus now building up in the Maryland treasury.

It won't continue in the face of current spending trends, says John S. Shriver, director of the Fiscal Research Bureau. He predicts the state may even have to levy new taxes by 1961 unless some of these trends are checked.

Shriver's views were contained in a report Tuesday to the Legislative Council's Committee on Taxation and Fiscal Matters.

He said general fund spending has been increasing at a rate of about 17 million dollars a year in recent years while revenues have been going up only about 10 million a year.

Beacuse of increases in the sales and income taxes, enacted in 1958, and some cautious revenue estimates pegged to the waning recession, a surplus of about $11,500,000 is now in hand. Shriver said it is possible that estimates for the current fiscal year will be exceeded by $8,000,000 if the steel strike is not "unduly prolonged."

This will give Gov. Tawes and the Legislature a handsome surplus when budget making time rolls around in February. But if this is committed to increased spending, as previous surpluses have been, the 1961 Legislature could find itself in a reverse position and have to raise taxes, Shriver warned.

"If the present trends continue, the revenue level will soon fall below the level of appropriations," he said. "Under such circumstances a further increase in taxation would be inevitable."

Stocks Stage Vigorous Recovery After Decline

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks staged a vigorous recovery move late Wednesday after further selling had slashed stock market values another $4 billion in the third day of decline.

The rally—in sharp contrast with the virtually pressureless selling—came on increased activity which forced reporting tickers to run late briefly and lifted turnover for the session to 3,050,000 shares, compared with 2,280,000 on Tuesday.

It cut the dollar loss for all listed shares to around $2 billion.

There were no reasons offered for the turn-about in the market community but it was noted that offerings dried up quickly once the tape fell behind. While rails did not show as marked a recovery as industrials, support developed above the year's low point and was heartening to chartists who have been concerned that any decisive loss in the rails could mean trouble ahead for the market.

Mixed Sentiment Shown

A smaller than anticipated short interest announced after the market close was viewed with mixed sentiment. While a decline in short position reflects a drop in the number of people anticipating a market decline, it also provides less of a potential buying force to cushion any fall.

Electronics highlighted the recovery move with some issues in the group doing a complete about-face. Texas Instruments for instance, went from a low of 125¼ to close at 136¾, up 6⅞. Litton and Zenith, too, erased substantial losses to close sharply higher.

Reynolds stood out with a gain of 2¾ in the metals but Magma held a 3 point loss. Polaroid, off more than 4 at its worst, had a final gain of 1⅞. Curtiss-Wright was a bright spot throughout the session and finished with a 3½ point gain, reflecting surprise that directors did not cut the quarterly dividend. Revlon, recent strong spot, reacted with realizing after announcement of a dividend hike.

Motors Show Loss

Motors, all off a point or so in early trading, showed only minor losses at the close. Steels were fractionally lower. Oils had mostly small declines although Texaco finished down 1⅜.

Stocks on the American exchange Wednesday suffered their third decline in as many days. Trading continued at a moderate pace.

Market activity has been affected by the lack of progress in steel negotiations and news of defense contract cancellations in recent days.

No Competition

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Tariff Commission reported to President Eisenhower Wednesday that competition from foreign bicycle makers has not changed enough to warrant easing tariff restrictions.

John Wesley Hyatt, inventor of celluloid, also invented the flexible ball bearing.

Korea Commie Gunboat Routed

SEOUL, Korea (UPI) — A Republic of Korea patrol boat routed a Korean Communist gunboat after a "fierce gun battle" off western Korea Tuesday, the navy announced Wednesday. The announcement said the "high speed" Communist vessel was intercepted two miles south of the sea demarcation line. It fled northward in heavy fog after an exchange of gunfire. A spokesman said there was no report of casualties or damages.

Stocks Stage Vigorous Recovery After Decline

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks staged a vigorous recovery move late Wednesday after further selling had slashed stock market values another $4 billion in the third day of decline.

The rally—in sharp contrast with the virtually pressureless selling—came on increased activity which forced reporting tickers to run late briefly and lifted turnover for the session to 3,050,000 shares, compared with 2,280,000 on Tuesday.

It cut the dollar loss for all listed shares to around $2 billion.

There were no reasons offered for the turn-about in the market community but it was noted that offerings dried up quickly once the tape fell behind. While rails did not show as marked a recovery as industrials, support developed above the year's low point and was heartening to chartists who have been concerned that any decisive loss in the rails could mean trouble ahead for the market.

Mixed Sentiment Shown

A smaller than anticipated short interest announced after the market close was viewed with mixed sentiment. While a decline in short position reflects a drop in the number of people anticipating a market decline, it also provides less of a potential buying force to cushion any fall.

Electronics highlighted the recovery move with some issues in the group doing a complete about-face. Texas Instruments for instance, went from a low of 125¼ to close at 136¾, up 6⅞. Litton and Zenith, too, erased substantial losses to close sharply higher.

Reynolds stood out with a gain of 2¾ in the metals but Magma held a 3 point loss. Polaroid, off more than 4 at its worst, had a final gain of 1⅞. Curtiss-Wright was a bright spot throughout the session and finished with a 3½ point gain, reflecting surprise that directors did not cut the quarterly dividend. Revlon, recent strong spot, reacted with realizing after announcement of a dividend hike.

Motors Show Loss

Motors, all off a point or so in early trading, showed only minor losses at the close. Steels were fractionally lower. Oils had mostly small declines although Texaco finished down 1⅛.

Stocks on the American exchange Wednesday suffered their third decline in as many days. Trading continued at a moderate pace.

Market activity has been affected by the lack of progress in steel negotiations and news of defense contract cancellations in recent days.

No Competition

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Tariff Commission reported to President Eisenhower Wednesday that competition from foreign bicycle makers has not changed enough to warrant easing tariff restrictions.

Korea Commie Gunboat Routed

SEOUL, Korea (UPI) — A Republic of Korea patrol boat routed a Korean Communist gunboat after a "fierce gun battle" off western Korea Tuesday, the navy announced Wednesday. The announcement said the "high speed" Communist vessel was intercepted two miles south of the sea demarcation line. It fled northward in heavy fog after an exchange of gunfire. A spokesman said there was no report of casualties or damages.

The harbor of Buffalo handles more than 16 million tons of waterborne freight annually.

Three Boys Questioned In Thefts

Three local boys were questioned by city police yesterday in connection with the theft of a pocketbook, wallet, and a picnic basket and lunch at Constitution Park.

A picnic basket, thermos jug and three cups belonging to Mr. and Mrs. John Knowlton of 502 Sheridan Place were taken while their two sons and another lad were on a picnic. The basket and one of the cups was recovered in a grove at the park.

Will India Look Toward China?

In terms of individual welfare—the measure which may ultimately determine whether its democratic experiment succeeds or fails — poverty-ridden India has been losing ground recently. Prime Minister Nehru announced to the House of the People August 6 that the nation's average annual income per capita had fallen from 291.5 rupees (about $58) in 1956-57 to 289.1 rupees (about $57) in 1957-58. The second five-year plan, inaugurated in 1956, aimed at an 18 per cent increase in per capita income by 1960-61.

The decline was not unexpected, however. Indeed, it may be part of the hard but necessary price which India must pay to hack its way through the tangle of ancient methods and social burdens which bars its path to the economic clearing.

India's problem is the constant stagnation which results when the returns from primitive agricultural and industrial methods are divided by a population which each year includes six million more mouths to feed and backs to clothe. As one observer put it recently (Commander Sir Robert Jackson in Foreign Affairs, October 1958): "Economies devoting less than, say, 12 to 15 per cent of their national income to productive investment are not likely to achieve much advance."

The current five-year plan, which called for an investment of $10 billion in the public sector of the economy and $5.4 billion in the private, has run into balance-of-payments trouble and the public phase has had to be cut back slightly.

Unlike Red China, which — within limits — can sweat most of the needed investment out of the hides of its people, India cannot regard the decline in living standards with equanimity. Nor can the nations of the West. Despite the ruthless suppressions of liberty in Red China, the Communist achievements are a seductive example to the abject and the starving. As former ambassador to India, Rep. Chester Bowles (D-Conn.) has said: "Manifest failure or indifferent success in India over the next decade will leave Communist China unchallenged and probably supreme."

These Days

How To See America

Usually when guests of the nation come to this country, the State Department works out an itinerary which often includes the big and spectacular cities and such places as are of special interest to the visitor. There are dinners and luncheons and speeches are delivered. Obviously, the man who is guarded by secret police and FBI agents and the local police and who moves through the country in a storm of confetti learns very little about the American people, what they think, how they live, and what they really believe to be true. The mass demonstration for Vice President Richard Nixon in Warsaw gave evidence of a spontaneous friendliness to an American, but neither Nixon nor anyone in his entourage sat down to a glass of tea with a few simple proletarian families, just as Khrushchev will not have occasion to do anything like that in this country.

Charles L. Dancey, editor of "The Peoria Journal Star," has made an interesting suggestion for Khrushchev's visit. He, of course, wants to have Khrushchev brought to Peoria. What, at least, could be done is to fly the Russian low from Pittsburgh to Cincinnati where he can see the greatest industrial complex in the world. He could be put down in the smaller cities of this area; it should be possible for him to visit homes. He might pick and choose so that he could not suspect that the show was set up for him.

He would find many Russian and Polish speaking people in these areas who could tell him of their lives in this country. He would find many whose ancestors were Ukrainians. He would discover how descendants of a great many races and nationalities manage to live and work together, retaining some of their inherited customs; but in the third generation, he will find that a new breed is emerging, an American breed, somewhat different from their sires but also different from what he might see in New York or Washington, in New Orleans or Chicago, in San Francisco or Los Angeles. The Middle West like New England is the America he ought to see, in many respects more surprising than the larger cities.

There is no American type as there is no Russian type. Certainly a Kalmuck is different from a Georgian, as a Ukrainian is different from a Uzbek.

In the United States, these differences are more pronounced because here for about 300 years, races of man have been mixing in a veritable melting pot. In some areas, the basic stock was Anglo-Saxon; in others, it was French or Spanish.

There was no time, from the earliest settlements until today, when there was not an influx of Germanic peoples into this country. It is difficult to trace this kind of statistics, but there have been as many German, Dutch, and Scandinavian migrants into the United States as Anglo-Saxon. It is estimated that there are about 12,000,000 descendants of Italians.

All Russians have been led to believe that the Negroes are a brutally treated minority nationality without rights, practically enslaved. And if Khrushchev is taken to Harlem in New York City, he will be in the ugliest ghetto in the world where Negroes live in crowded tenements and are usually exploited by Negro and white politicians. However, there are cities in the South and in the West where Negroes live comfortably and even advantageously because they are Negroes.

It would be an act of patriotism for Negro labor leaders to establish to Khrushchev the fact of the equality of pay for identical work in cities like Detroit and Pittsburgh. He should be taken to universities where he can see Negro boys and girls preparing for national leadership. The lies that have been told in Russia by American Communists need to be exploded. Perhaps Khrushchev can still learn something about the United States and the American people.

If we want to show off, this is the kind of showing off we need to do. If this visit is not for showing off purposes, what is it for? We need to establish the fact that here live some 50 races and nationalities of man in mutual interest without accentuation of differences, but with freedom to pursue their differences if they so desire. We need to show him that in our freely demonstrated differences lie our strength.

The Only Answer Is Wheels

When They Rocked 'n' Rolled In Ancient China

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

Every sensible person has a favorite refuge, remote from the dusty concerns of his daily life. It may be parakeet training, or big-game hunting, or just the opium of television, but it serves a necessary purpose. This reporter's refuge happens to be the past.

This confession and/or self-justification is in order, because China in the millenium of Our Lord has no business creeping into a political column, and ancient Chinese musical criticism is even more out of place.

All the same the knowledge that the old Chinese had a serious rock 'n' roll problem may console parents alarmed by the wild ways of their offspring, moralists who connect rock 'n' roll with juvenile delinquency, and even the "Pravda" editorial writers who are so horrified by young Communists' taste for Western jazz. The evidence was discovered in the "Record of Music," a section of the "Li Chih" or "Book of Rites," which was reputedly compiled by Confucius himself.

"The Marquis Wen of Wei," reports the "Record," "asked (Confucius's disciple) Tzu-hsia: 'When . . . I listen to the ancient music, I am only afraid that I shall go to sleep. When I listen to the music of Cheng and Wei, I do not feel tired. Let me inquire why I should feel so differently under the old and new music?'

"Tze-hsia replied: 'In the old music (all) is harmonious, correct and in large volume . . . In (it) the superior man speaks of and follows the ways of antiquity. The character is cultivated; the family is regulated; and peace and order are secured throughout the kingdom. This is the manner of the old music.

" 'But now, in the new music, (the performers) advance and retire without any regular order. The music is corrupt to excess. There is no end to its vileness. Among the players . . . boys and girls are mixed together, and there is no distinction between father and son . . . this is the fashion of the new music.

" 'What you ask about is music; and what you like is sound. Now music and sound are akin, but they are not the same.' "

Tzu-hsia, a square if ever there was one, then finished off the poor, cornered Marquis by classifying the particular horrors of different types of the new music, as one might label different rock 'n' roll singers and bands. "The airs of Cheng go to a wild excess, and debauch the mind," he explained. "Those of Sung tell of slothful indulgence and women . . . those of Wei are vehement and rapid . . . and those of Ch'u are violent and depraved, and make the mind arrogant . . . All stimulate libidinous desire and are injurious to virtue. They should therefore not be used."

Presumably these stern words convinced the Marquis Wen, though perhaps without correcting his sad tendency to doze off during performances of classical music. He undoubtedly agreed with Tzu-hsia's reminder that "a ruler . . . has to be careful what he likes and dislikes." Presumably, too, he was a conscientious overlord of his small corner of Old China. Otherwise, he would just have ordered out the dancing girls and boys, without asking Tzu-hsia about it.

One likes to think of the Marquis's court, happily purged of libidinous sounds, firmly restored to complete decorum, with Tzu-hsia smugly triumphant in his corner. But it is even more enjoyable to realize that this kind of argument may really have occurred in 500 or 600 or 700 B. C. Maybe it did not occur exactly as reported in the "Record of Music." As the Chinese classics are also Chinese puzzles, their literal accuracy is not dependable, but there certainly was a general debate about the old music and new, which is duly reflected in the "Record." In this debate, furthermore, persons like Tzu-hsia certainly felt just as violently as he is represented as feeling. They had even better reason to feel violently, after all, than the "Pravda" editorial writers who clearly feel very violently indeed. For this was sacred and magical music the Old Chinese were debating about.

It was performed at the sacrifices to the spirits of the ancestors and the spirits of the land and grain. It was thought to help the seasons and encourage the crops and strengthen the government and improve public order. No wonder, then, that rock 'n' roll-ish tendencies before the holy altars caused fussbudgets to fuss.

To be sure, if one may judge by surviving and very much later old music of China and Japan, even the music that left Marquis Wen "not tired" would have caused snores at the most respectable church social. But that is only another proof of the first rule one learns by taking refuge in the past, the rule that everything is relative. And the story of Marquis Wen also proves the second rule, that eternal change and eternal continuity are the sole constants in the life of men.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

The visits of Khrushchev and Eisenhower to the United States and Russia are being hailed as the first sign of a thaw in the cold war in many years.

Coming as they do on the heels of failure at the Geneva foreign ministers' meeting, they represent virtually the only remaining hope that an avenue can be found to ease international tensions and reduce the chances of another major war.

It can be reported authoritatively that President Eisenhower initiated the discussions with the Soviet leader precisely for this reason. The fact is that the President recognized the impending failure of the foreign ministers' meeting many weeks ago and began casting about for some way to keep from sinking deeper in an international stalemate.

The President was fully aware that there would be some opposition to a Khrushchev visit to the United States, and that there were real security and other risks involved in such a visit. It was for this reason that the chief executive decided, despite his health and his 69 years, to simultaneously announce that he would undertake a trip to Moscow.

As Vice President Richard M. Nixon already has informed him, it will be a gruelling journey. Beyond the physical impact of such a trip there is the ever-present realization of pitfalls which keep one extremely alert at all times.

The whole arrangement reflects President Eisenhower's oft-stated determination to go anywhere and do anything within reason in the quest of peace. In the present instance, he has gone much more than half way, figuratively, and much, much farther, literally, than some of his advisers feel he should.

Insect Stings Need Quick, Careful Treatment

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The honeybee stings only once. The procedure proves fatal to the insect because it tears the barbed stinger from the attacker and it remains in the victim. The stinger of the queen bee is not barbed so that she can sting as often as she wishes. She usually confines her dirty work to killing her rival queens, without injury to herself.

Time is an important element in minimizing distress from a bee sting. During the sting and for a moment or so thereafter, the shaft of the stinger forces itself deeper and deeper into the skin. In addition, the venom gland that is attached to the shaft continues to pump its contents into the wound. The sooner the stinger is removed, the less the irritation.

Do not grasp the stinger between the fingers or with tweezers because squeezing the sac forces more venom into the skin. The effect is similar to squeezing the bulb at the end of a syringe. It is better to scrape out the stinger with a finger nail or to hook a knife blade under the sac and flip it out without compressing it.

Another method is to press the end of a watch key or other small tube on the flesh around the stinger. The shaft is easy to recognize because it is black with bits of white tissue attached to the end. The unit is approximately one-quarter the size of a match head.

Other stinging insects such as wasps, ants, hornets, yellow jackets, and bumblebees retain their stinger because it is not barbed.

Most insect stings and bites produce allergic reactions. The punctured skin usually swells, turns red, and itches intensely. Ice packs reduce puffiness but the best remedies are creams or ointments containing cortisone or one of the antihistaminics. Persons who are extremely sensitive to the sting of an insect suffer serious reactions and adrenalin may be needed to save life.

TOMORROW: Don't become an invalid.

STOMACH CANCER

Worried writes: Is there such a thing as a gastric malignancy that does not show up under X-ray? I have had stomach distress for years but the doctors can find nothing wrong.

REPLY

X-ray may not show a small cancer but it will if the films are repeated within a few months after the lesion enlarges. Time rules out the possibility of stomach cancer as these lesions grow rapidly. Long standing stomach symptoms cannot be due to a malignancy.

REMEDIES BUT NO CURE

R. T. writes: Has a cure been found for multiple sclerosis?

REPLY

No, but the answer lies somewhere in the hope chest. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on this disease.

COTTAGE CHEESE

O. M. writes: Is eating cottage cheese bad for arthritis?

REPLY

No, it won't deposit calcium in the joints as some persons fear. Cottage cheese provides protein, which should help build resistance as well as other important food elements.

DO YOU COUGH?

O. W. writes: Is it safe for a person with chronic bronchitis to sleep on the ground on a camping trip?

REPLY

Yes. But remember that tents are not soundproof and if you are to sleep in a tent village, your fellow campers may complain about your hacking. Decrease the effects of dampness by sleeping on a cot or an air mattress.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

Two Broadway characters, on a sightseeing trip through the Everglades, were separated from their guide. Suddenly one cried, "Help! An alligator just bit my leg off." "That's terrible," groaned the other. "Which one?" "How should I know?" asked the victim. "All alligators look alike to me."

Banker Arthur Goodman is satisfied with the progress his wife is making in auto driving. "Six more lessons," promises Goodman, "and I'm going to put the door back on our garage."

David Niven, quite a master of the colorful phrase, returned empty-handed from a fishing trip off Montauk Point recently. "All I did," he admitted ruefully, "was to flog the water to a froth."

When a couple of automobiles are double parked, observes Buddy Hackett, you never have to think twice to know which one was parked by your wife. It's the one on top.

Doctors' Worry Over 'Socialized' Medicine Behind Polio Epidemic

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The American public isn't being told the whole story about the shocking rise of polio which caught the nation with a Salk vaccine shortage in many areas.

Officially the U. S. Public Health Service explains the situation by saying that "community" inoculation drives, spurred by the rising incidence of polio, have drained off vaccine supplies.

However, what the people aren't being told is that the alarming increase of the crippling disease, plus the vaccine shortage, might have been avoided, or at least lessened, if many local medical societies had not blocked mass Salk vaccine immunization.

One of the worst outbreaks of polio this year occurred in Des Moines, Iowa, where two years ago the Iowa State Medical Society went on record against "mass immunization. . . without (doctor) fees for administration."

In other words, the Iowa Medical Society wanted Iowans to go to the office of each individual doctor and pay a $4 or $5 fee for each Salk vaccine shot, rather than have the shots administered on a mass, cut-rate basis by nurses under the supervision of a doctor.

It is a well known fact that many people, especially lower bracket families, will not go to a doctor's office to be inoculated against polio or any other disease.

A similar situation occurred in Washington, D. C., in 1957, when the District of Columbia Medical Society balked at supplying medical supervision for the anti-polio inoculation of 1,600 Capitol employes. They claimed it was "socialized medicine." The Navy Department finally had to provide an attending Physician.

Dr. Leroy Burney, Director of the U. S. Public Health Service, when interviewed last week on NBC, did not reveal that the opposition of medical groups to mass Salk vaccine immunization so-called socialized medicine—was the chief reason for the current polio epidemic. And NBC did not press him. I. fact, commentator Morgan Beatty stated that Salk vaccine shots have been free — which was anything but the case in most cities until the present emergency.

However, Public Health doctors working under Burney are less discreet. They are emphatic that had the medical societies of all states cooperated in mass inoculation programs, instead of crying about "socialized medicine," there would be no polio epidemic today. Also, with planned mass inoculations, the supply of Salk vaccine would be more closely stabilized to demand, since manufacturers can then gauge the market.

Note: Not all doctors oppose mass vaccinations. In some states, notably North Carolina, local medical groups enthusiastically endorsed the idea.

Revival Of Youth Corps

Two Senators who came to Washington during the first year of the New Deal, 26 years ago, lined up last week on opposite sides of the same measure for which they both voted as freshmen Congressmen.

They are Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois, now Republican leader of the Senate, and Sen. Jennings Randolph, West Virginia Democrat. The question on which they once agreed, now differed, was youth conservation camps.

Randolph, more than any other Senator, is given credit for piloting the youth conservation bill through the Senate by a narrow 47-45. Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota introduced the bill with Randolph among the co-sponsors, and battled for its passage. But when it came to the legislative footwork, he gives credit to the Senator from West Virginia for getting a favorable vote.

Randolph quietly went from Senator to Senator making sure he had the margin to win. He knew it would be close. Almost every Republican was lined up against the bill, which provided for a revival of Roosevelt's Civilian Conservation Corps to get youngsters off the city streets and at the same time preserve natural resources. But Republicans claimed it increased the budget.

Dirksen, the Republican leader, told Randolph: "Your bill is a dead duck. We've got the votes to beat it."

"You and I voted for the old CCC bill when we first came to Congress under the New Deal," Randolph argued, "I'm sorry that after a quarter of a century you can't do so again."

"I've learned some things in the interim," Dirksen replied.

"But in 1937," Randolph reminded him, "You voted for the CCC camps again. This is pro-people legislation which deserves your support."

Dirksen remained unmoved, was confident he had the votes to block his old colleague. But when the votes were counted, the freshman Senator from West Virginia had outmaneuvered the veteran Republican leader from Illinois.

Khrushchev Visit

Admiral Rickover wants to take Premier Khrushchev for a ride in an atomic submarine. If Khrushchev's not interested, he's in favor of a special demonstration voyage for a Russian naval aide. Rickover learned while in Russia that the Soviet Navy is having problems building its first atomic submarine, and he figures a ride in one of America's atomic subs would be an eye-opener. . . . President Eisenhower will do a lot of homework to prepare for Khrushchev.

SEC's Publicists

By Leslie Gould

NEW YORK—In its battle with Congress for more money, the Securities and Exchange Commission, or more specifically, one of the commissioners, has added something new for a federal agency.

This is the services of a large public relations and publicity firm to get the SEC's "message" over to the public.

The Commissioner—James C. Sargent—spoke before the Virginia State Bar Association.

Sargent made use of the publicity firm's services—allowing it to write a "news" story on the speech, sending this via a special wire to newspapers and following it up with hand delivery of a mimeograph of the "news" story and the full text of the speech.

The full text was the SEC release, which never did get to all newspapers.

Sargent got considerable newspaper space and one paper took the public relations firm's "news" story, put a line over it—"special to the . . . . . " —and used it without any change but the elimination of the last two paragraphs.

The lead on the 400-word "news" story, as written by the publicity firm's man, started:

"WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, West Va., Aug. 7.—Cutbacks in the staff of the Securities & Exchange Commission, which will nominally save taxpayers $175 thousand in the current fiscal year, may cost investors millions by contributing to a breakdown in securities law enforcement, James C. Sargent, an SEC Commissoner, warned here today."

Further along there was this:

"Contrasting the penurious attitude toward his agency's staff with the lavishness shown elsewhere, Mr. Sargent added:

" 'These same appropriations committees provided $500 thousand for the rehabilitation of the building in which we are housed, which has often been called a 'broken down' dilapidated, World War II temporary tarpaper shack.' . . .

" 'I believe the appropriations committee members have indulged in a pennywise, pound foolish philosophy. This I deplore.' "

A spokesman for the public relations firm and also another for the SEC commissioner said that a man on the firm's staff was a friend of Sargent. The firm's spokesman said that it was more a business friendship than personal.

There was no charge for the service—the writing of a news release, its distribution and also distribution of the text.

The firm, although only three years old, is one of the largest and most successful in the field. It has a number of accounts, among these some that have had problems at the SEC.

The firm is Tex McCrary, Inc.

One of the clients handled by the firm or one of its top men was Bernard Goldfine, the Boston industrialist, who figured in the sensational Washington influence case that resulted in the resignation of Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams.

The Goldfine matter revolved mostly around an SEC case, involving reports by one of his enterprises.

A major client of the firm is General Development Corp. headed by one time Toronto broker — Louis Chesler. The shares in this company had a sensational rise and fall on the American Stock Exchange, drawing the attention of the SEC's investigating staff.

General Development shares went from $8.12½ last year to a high early this spring of $77.50 and then in two weeks of hectic trading fell to $45.12½. This brought on the SEC investigation. No reports to date have been made on that investigation, which was announced April 1.

Two stock dividends were paid on the same date—one share for every four shares held and then one share for each share held after the first "split." The net result of this was each shareowner prior to April 24 has now 2½ shares, which at the current price of around $19 is equal to $47.50 on the old stock.

Another client with important matters before the SEC is Townsend Corp. of America, formerly the Townsend Investment Co. This group organized a new mutual fund and is seeking to take over management and distribution of Managed Funds, Inc., of St. Louis, which got into SEC difficulties. It also has a 24 per cent interest in Hugh W. Long & Co., which manages and distributes the shares of a group of mutual funds with nearly $700 million.

Another client is U. S. Hoffman Machinery, now headed by Harold Roth.

Roth admitted to the Senate committee investigating the labor racket of sponsoring loans, placed at $243,600, to Milton Holt, when Holt was boss of a Teamsters local. The loans were made by Valley Commercial Corp., a large money lender and business brokerage firm, of which Roth is secretary and treasurer.

Holt's union represents the employes of another Roth concern — Continental Industries, Inc., but Roth insisted there was nothing improper in the loans and that he and Holt were friends of 30 years. Roth admitted under questioning of Senator McClellan that he lent $10,000 without interest to the Teamsters boss to buy $30,000 of a special issue of Continental Industries two years ago.

Senator McClellan told Roth:

"You can't serve two masters at the same time. A union representative exposes himself to justified criticism when he accepts favors from employes of the men who pay dues to his union."

What would Senator McClellan have to say about an SEC commissioner using for free a publicity firm handling clients very much involved with the SEC?

The current five-year plan, which called for an investment of $10 billion in the public sector of the economy and $5.4 billion in the private, has run into balance-of-payments trouble and the public phase has had to be cut back slightly.

Unlike Red China, which — within limits — can sweat most of the needed investment out of the hides of its people, India cannot regard the decline in living standards with equanimity. Nor can the nations of the West. Despite the ruthless suppressions of liberty in Red China, the Communist achievements are a seductive example to the abject and the starving. As former ambassador to India, Rep. Chester Bowles (D-Conn.) has said: "Manifest failure or indifferent success in India over the next decade will leave Communist China unchallenged and probably supreme."

How To See America

Usually when guests of the nation come to this country, the State Department works out an itinerary which often includes the big and spectacular cities and such places as are of special interest to the visitor. There are dinners and luncheons and speeches are delivered. Obviously, the man who is guarded by secret police and FBI agents and the local police and who moves through the country in a storm of confetti learns very little about the American people, what they think, how they live, and what they really believe to be true. The mass demonstration for Vice President Richard Nixon in Warsaw gave evidence of a spontaneous friendliness to an American, but neither Nixon nor anyone in his entourage sat down to a glass of tea with a few simple proletarian families, just as Khrushchev will not have occasion to do anything like that in this country.

Charles L. Dancey, editor of "The Peoria Journal Star," has made an interesting suggestion for Khrushchev's visit. He, of course, wants to have Khrushchev brought to Peoria. What, at least, could be done is to fly the Russian low from Pittsburgh to Cincinnati where he can see the greatest industrial complex in the world. He could be put down in the smaller cities of this area; it should be possible for him to visit homes. He might pick and choose so that he could not suspect that the show was set up for him.

He would find many Russian and Polish speaking people in these areas who could tell him of their lives in this country. He would find many whose ancestors were Ukrainians. He would discover how descendants of a great many races and nationalities manage to live and work together, retaining some of their inherited customs; but in the third generation, he will find that a new breed is emerging, an American breed, somewhat different from their sires but also different from what he might see in New York or Washington, in New Orleans or Chicago, in San Francisco or Los Angeles. The Middle West like New England is the America he ought to see, in many respects more surprising than the larger cities.

There is no American type as there is no Russian type. Certainly a Kalmuck is different from a Georgian, as a Ukrainian is different from a Uzbek.

In the United States, these differences are more pronounced because here for about 300 years, races of man have been mixing in a veritable melting pot. In some areas, the basic stock was Anglo-Saxon; in others, it was French or Spanish.

There was no time, from the earliest settlements until today, when there was not an influx of Germanic peoples into this country. It is difficult to trace this kind of statistics, but there have been as many German, Dutch, and Scandinavian migrants into the United States as Anglo-Saxon. It is estimated that there are about 12,000,000 descendants of Italians.

All Russians have been led to believe that the Negroes are a brutally treated minority nationality without rights, practically enslaved. And if Khrushchev is taken to Harlem in New York City, he will be in the ugliest ghetto in the world where Negroes live in crowded tenements and are usually exploited by Negro and white politicians. However, there are cities in the South and in the West where Negroes live comfortably and even advantageously because they are Negroes.

It would be an act of patriotism for Negro labor leaders to establish to Khrushchev the fact of the equality of pay for identical work in cities like Detroit and Pittsburgh. He should be taken to universities where he can see Negro boys and girls preparing for national leadership. The lies that have been told in Russia by American Communists need to be exploded. Perhaps Khrushchev can still learn something about the United States and the American people.

If we want to show off, this is the kind of showing off we need to do. If this visit is not for showing off purposes, what is it for? We need to establish the fact that here live some 50 races and nationalities of man in mutual interest without accentuation of differences, but with freedom to pursue their differences if they so desire. We need to show him that in our freely demonstrated differences lie our strength.

The Only Answer Is Wheels

When They Rocked 'n' Rolled In Ancient China

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

Every sensible person has a favorite refuge, remote from the dusty concerns of his daily life. It may be parakeet training, or big-game hunting, or just the opium of television, but it serves a necessary purpose. This reporter's refuge happens to be the past.

This confession and/or self-justification is in order, because China in the millenium of Our Lord has no business creeping into a political column, and ancient Chinese musical criticism is even more out of place.

All the same the knowledge that the old Chinese had a serious rock 'n' roll problem may console parents alarmed by the wild ways of their offspring, moralists who connect rock 'n' roll with juvenile delinquency, and even the "Pravda" editorial writers who are so horrified by young Communists' taste for Western jazz. The evidence was discovered in the "Record of Music," a section of the "Li Chih" or "Book of Rites," which was reputedly compiled by Confucius himself.

"The Marquis Wen of Wei," reports the "Record," "asked (Confucius's disciple) Tzu-hsia: 'When . . . I listen to the ancient music, I am only afraid that I shall go to sleep. When I listen to the music of Cheng and Wei, I do not feel tired. Let me inquire why I should feel so differently under the old and new music?'

"Tze-hsia replied: 'In the old music (all) is harmonious, correct and in large volume . . . In (it) the superior man speaks of and follows the ways of antiquity. The character is cultivated; the family is regulated; and peace and order are secured throughout the kingdom. This is the manner of the old music.

" 'But now, in the new music, (the performers) advance and retire without any regular order. The music is corrupt to excess. There is no end to its vileness. Among the players . . . boys and girls are mixed together, and there is no distinction between father and son . . . this is the fashion of the new music.

" 'What you ask about is music; and what you like is sound. Now music and sound are akin, but they are not the same.' "

Tzu-hsia, a square if ever there was one, then finished off the poor, cornered Marquis by classifying the particular horrors of different types of the new music, as one might label different rock 'n' roll singers and bands. "The airs of Cheng go to a wild excess, and debauch the mind," he explained. "Those of Sung tell of slothful indulgence and women . . . those of Wei are vehement and rapid . . . and those of Ch'u are violent and depraved, and make the mind arrogant . . . All stimulate libidinous desire and are injurious to virtue. They should therefore not be used."

Presumably these stern words convinced the Marquis Wen, though perhaps without correcting his sad tendency to doze off during performances of classical music. He undoubtedly agreed with Tzu-hsia's reminder that "a ruler . . . has to be careful what he likes and dislikes." Presumably, too, he was a conscientious overlord of his small corner of Old China. Otherwise, he would just have ordered out the dancing girls and boys, without asking Tzu-hsia about it.

One likes to think of the Marquis's court, happily purged of libidinous sounds, firmly restored to complete decorum, with Tzu-hsia smugly triumphant in his corner. But it is even more enjoyable to realize that this kind of argument may really have occurred in 500 or 600 or 700 B. C. Maybe it did not occur exactly as reported in the "Record of Music." As the Chinese classics are also Chinese puzzles, their literal accuracy is not dependable, but there certainly was a general debate about the old music and new, which is duly reflected in the "Record." In this debate, furthermore, persons like Tzu-hsia certainly felt just as violently as he is represented as feeling. They had even better reason to feel violently, after all, than the "Pravda" editorial writers who clearly feel very violently indeed. For this was sacred and magical music the Old Chinese were debating about.

It was performed at the sacrifices to the spirits of the ancestors and the spirits of the land and grain. It was thought to help the seasons and encourage the crops and strengthen the government and improve public order. No wonder, then, that rock 'n' roll-ish tendencies before the holy altars caused fussbudgets to fuss.

To be sure, if one may judge by surviving and very much later old music of China and Japan, even the music that left Marquis Wen "not tired" would have caused snores at the most respectable church social. But that is only another proof of the first rule one learns by taking refuge in the past, the rule that everything is relative. And the story of Marquis Wen also proves the second rule, that eternal change and eternal continuity are the sole constants in the life of men.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

The visits of Khrushchev and Eisenhower to the United States and Russia are being hailed as the first sign of a thaw in the cold war in many years.

Coming as they do on the heels of failure at the Geneva foreign ministers' meeting, they represent virtually the only remaining hope that an avenue can be found to ease international tensions and reduce the chances of another major war.

It can be reported authoritatively that President Eisenhower initiated the discussions with the Soviet leader precisely for this reason. The fact is that the President recognized the impending failure of the foreign ministers' meeting many weeks ago and began casting about for some way to keep from sinking deeper in an international stalemate.

The President was fully aware that there would be some opposition to a Khrushchev visit to the United States, and that there were real security and other risks involved in such a visit. It was for this reason that the chief executive decided, despite his health and his 69 years, to simultaneously announce that he would undertake a trip to Moscow.

As Vice President Richard M. Nixon already has informed him, it will be a gruelling journey. Beyond the physical impact of such a trip there is the ever-present realization of pitfalls which keep one extremely alert at all times.

The whole arrangement reflects President Eisenhower's oft-stated determination to go anywhere and do anything within reason in the quest of peace. In the present instance, he has gone much more than half way, figuratively, and much, much farther, literally, than some of his advisers feel he should.

Insect Stings Need Quick, Careful Treatment

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The honeybee stings only once. The procedure proves fatal to the insect because it tears the barbed stinger from the attacker and it remains in the victim. The stinger of the queen bee is not barbed so that she can sting as often as she wishes. She usually confines her dirty work to killing her rival queens, without injury to herself.

Time is an important element in minimizing distress from a bee sting. During the sting and for a moment or so thereafter, the shaft of the stinger forces itself deeper and deeper into the skin. In addition, the venom gland that is attached to the shaft continues to pump its contents into the wound. The sooner the stinger is removed, the less the irritation.

Do not grasp the stinger between the fingers or with tweezers because squeezing the sac forces more venom into the skin. The effect is similar to squeezing the bulb at the end of a syringe. It is better to scrape out the stinger with a finger nail or to hook a knife blade under the sac and flip it out without compressing it.

Another method is to press the end of a watch key or other small tube on the flesh around the stinger. The shaft is easy to recognize because it is black with bits of white tissue attached to the end. The unit is approximately one-quarter the size of a match head.

Other stinging insects such as wasps, ants, hornets, yellow jackets, and bumblebees retain their stinger because it is not barbed.

Most insect stings and bites produce allergic reactions. The punctured skin usually swells, turns red, and itches intensely. Ice packs reduce puffiness but the best remedies are creams or ointments containing cortisone or one of the antihistaminics. Persons who are extremely sensitive to the sting of an insect suffer serious reactions and adrenalin may be needed to save life.

TOMORROW: Don't become an invalid.

STOMACH CANCER

Worried writes: Is there such a thing as a gastric malignancy that does not show up under X-ray? I have had stomach distress for years but the doctors can find nothing wrong.

REPLY

X-ray may not show a small cancer but it will if the films are repeated within a few months after the lesion enlarges. Time rules out the possibility of stomach cancer as these lesions grow rapidly. Long standing stomach symptoms cannot be due to a malignancy.

REMEDIES BUT NO CURE

R. T. writes: Has a cure been found for multiple sclerosis?

REPLY

No, but the answer lies somewhere in the hope chest. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on this disease.

COTTAGE CHEESE

O. M. writes: Is eating cottage cheese bad for arthritis?

REPLY

No, it won't deposit calcium in the joints as some persons fear. Cottage cheese provides protein, which should help build resistance as well as other important food elements.

DO YOU COUGH?

O. W. writes: Is it safe for a person with chronic bronchitis to sleep on the ground on a camping trip?

REPLY

Yes. But remember that tents are not soundproof and if you are to sleep in a tent village, your fellow campers may complain about your hacking. Decrease the effects of dampness by sleeping on a cot or an air mattress.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Two Broadway characters, on a sightseeing trip through the Everglades, were separated from their guide. Suddenly one cried, "Help! An alligator just bit my leg off." "That's terrible," groaned the other. "Which one?" "How should I know?" asked the victim. "All alligators look alike to me."

Banker Arthur Goodman is satisfied with the progress his wife is making in auto driving. "Six more lessons," promises Goodman, "and I'm going to put the door back on our garage."

David Niven, quite a master of the colorful phrase, returned empty-handed from a fishing trip off Montauk Point recently. "All I did," he admitted ruefully, "was to flog the water to a froth."

When a couple of automobiles are double parked, observes Buddy Hackett, you never have to think twice to know which one was parked by your wife. It's the one on top.

Doctors' Worry Over 'Socialized' Medicine Behind Polio Epidemic

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The American public isn't being told the whole story about the shocking rise of polio which caught the nation with a Salk vaccine shortage in many areas.

Officially the U. S. Public Health Service explains the situation by saying that "community" inoculation drives, spurred by the rising incidence of polio, have drained off vaccine supplies.

However, what the people aren't being told is that the alarming increase of the crippling disease, plus the vaccine shortage, might have been avoided, or at least lessened, if many local medical societies had not blocked mass Salk vaccine immunization.

One of the worst outbreaks of polio this year occurred in Des Moines, Iowa, where two years ago the Iowa State Medical Society went on record against "mass immunization. . . without (doctor) fees for administration."

In other words, the Iowa Medical Society wanted Iowans to go to the office of each individual doctor and pay a $4 or $5 fee for each Salk vaccine shot, rather than have the shots administered on a mass, cut-rate basis by nurses under the supervision of a doctor.

It is a well known fact that many people, especially lower bracket families, will not go to a doctor's office to be inoculated against polio or any other disease.

A similar situation occurred in Washington, D. C., in 1957, when the District of Columbia Medical Society balked at supplying medical supervision for the anti-polio inoculation of 1,600 Capitol employes. They claimed it was "socialized medicine." The Navy Department finally had to provide an attending Physician.

Dr. Leroy Burney, Director of the U. S. Public Health Service, when interviewed last week on NBC, did not reveal that the opposition of medical groups to mass Salk vaccine immunization so-called socialized medicine—was the chief reason for the current polio epidemic. And NBC did not press him. I. fact, commentator Morgan Beatty stated that Salk vaccine shots have been free — which was anything but the case in most cities until the present emergency.

However, Public Health doctors working under Burney are less discreet. They are emphatic that had the medical societies of all states cooperated in mass inoculation programs, instead of crying about "socialized medicine," there would be no polio epidemic today. Also, with planned mass inoculations, the supply of Salk vaccine would be more closely stabilized to demand, since manufacturers can then gauge the market.

Note: Not all doctors oppose mass vaccinations. In some states, notably North Carolina, local medical groups enthusiastically endorsed the idea.

Revival Of Youth Corps

Two Senators who came to Washington during the first year of the New Deal, 26 years ago, lined up last week on opposite sides of the same measure for which they both voted as freshmen Congressmen.

They are Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois, now Republican leader of the Senate, and Sen. Jennings Randolph, West Virginia Democrat. The question on which they once agreed, now differed, was youth conservation camps.

Randolph, more than any other Senator, is given credit for piloting the youth conservation bill through the Senate by a narrow 47-45. Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota introduced the bill with Randolph among the co-sponsors, and battled for its passage. But when it came to the legislative footwork, he gives credit to the Senator from West Virginia for getting a favorable vote.

Randolph quietly went from Senator to Senator making sure he had the margin to win. He knew it would be close. Almost every Republican was lined up against the bill, which provided for a revival of Roosevelt's Civilian Conservation Corps to get youngsters off the city streets and at the same time preserve natural resources. But Republicans claimed it increased the budget.

Dirksen,, the Republican leader, told Randolph: "Your bill is a dead duck. We've got the votes to beat it."

"You and I voted for the old CCC bill when we first came to Congress under the New Deal," Randolph argued, "I'm sorry that after a quarter of a century you can't do so again."

"I've learned some things in the interim," Dirksen replied.

"But in 1937," Randolph reminded him, "You voted for the CCC camps again. This is pro-people legislation which deserves your support."

Dirksen remained unmoved, was confident he had the votes to block his old colleague. But when the votes were counted, the freshman Senator from West Virginia had outmaneuvered the veteran Republican leader from Illinois.

Khrushchev Visit

Admiral Rickover wants to take Premier Khrushchev for a ride in an atomic submarine. If Khrushchev's not interested, he's in favor of a special demonstration voyage for a Russian naval aide. Rickover learned while in Russia that the Soviet Navy is having problems building its first atomic submarine, and he figures a ride in one of America's atomic subs would be an eye-opener. . . . President Eisenhower will do a lot of homework to prepare for Khrushchev.

SEC's Publicists

By Leslie Gould

NEW YORK—In its battle with Congress for more money, the Securities and Exchange Commission, or more specifically, one of the commissioners, has added something new for a federal agency.

This is the services of a large public relations and publicity firm to get the SEC's "message" over to the public.

The Commissioner—James C. Sargent—spoke before the Virginia State Bar Association.

Sargent made use of the publicity firm's services—allowing it to write a "news" story on the speech, sending this via a special wire to newspapers and following it up with hand delivery of a mimeograph of the "news" story and the full text of the speech.

The full text was the SEC release, which never did get to all newspapers.

Sargent got considerable newspaper space and one paper took the public relations firm's "news" story, put a line over it—"special to the . . . . . " —and used it without any change but the elimination of the last two paragraphs.

The lead on the 400-word "news" story, as written by the publicity firm's man, started:

"WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, West Va., Aug. 7.—Cutbacks in the staff of the Securities & Exchange Commission, which will nominally save taxpayers $175 thousand in the current fiscal year, may cost investors millions by contributing to a breakdown in securities law enforcement, James C. Sargent, an SEC Commissoner, warned here today."

Further along there was this:

"Contrasting the penurious attitude toward his agency's staff with the lavishness shown elsewhere, Mr. Sargent added:

" 'These same appropriations committees provided $500 thousand for the rehabilitation of the building in which we are housed, which has often been called a 'broken down' dilapidated, World War II temporary tarpaper shack.' . . .

" 'I believe the appropriations committee members have indulged in a pennywise, pound foolish philosophy. This I deplore.' "

A spokesman for the public relations firm and also another for the SEC commissioner said that a man on the firm's staff was a friend of Sargent. The firm's spokesman said that it was more a business friendship than personal.

There was no charge for the service—the writing of a news release, its distribution and also distribution of the text.

The firm, although only three years old, is one of the largest and most successful in the field. It has a number of accounts, among these some that have had problems at the SEC.

The firm is Tex McCrary, Inc.

One of the clients handled by the firm or one of its top men was Bernard Goldfine, the Boston industrialist, who figured in the sensational Washington influence case that resulted in the resignation of Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams.

The Goldfine matter revolved mostly around an SEC case, involving reports by one of his enterprises.

A major client of the firm is General Development Corp. headed by one time Toronto broker — Louis Chesler. The shares in this company had a sensational rise and fall on the American Stock Exchange, drawing the attention of the SEC's investigating staff.

General Development shares went from $8.12½ last year to a high early this spring of $77.50 and then in two weeks of hectic trading fell to $45.12½. This brought on the SEC investigation. No reports to date have been made on that investigation, which was announced April 1.

Two stock dividends were paid on the same date—one share for every four shares held and then one share for each share held after the first "split." The net result of this was each shareowner prior to April 24 has now 2½ shares, which at the current price of around $19 is equal to $47.50 on the old stock.

Another client with important matters before the SEC is Townsend Corp. of America, formerly the Townsend Investment Co. This group organized a new mutual fund and is seeking to take over management and distribution of Managed Funds, Inc., of St. Louis, which got into SEC difficulties. It also has a 24 per cent interest in Hugh W. Long & Co., which manages and distributes the shares of a group of mutual funds with nearly $700 million.

Another client is U. S. Hoffman Machinery, now headed by Harold Roth.

Roth admitted to the Senate committee investigating the labor racket of sponsoring loans, placed at $243,600, to Milton Holt, when Holt was boss of a Teamsters local. The loans were made by Valley Commercial Corp., a large money lender and business brokerage firm, of which Roth is secretary and treasurer.

Holt's union represents the employes of another Roth concern — Continental Industries, Inc., but Roth insisted there was nothing improper in the loans and that he and Holt were friends of 30 years. Roth admitted under questioning of Senator McClellan that he lent $10,000 without interest to the Teamsters boss to buy $30,000 of a special issue of Continental Industries two years ago.

Senator McClellan told Roth:

"You can't serve two masters at the same time. A union representative exposes himself to justified criticism when he accepts favors from employes of the men who pay dues to his union."

What would Senator McClellan have to say about an SEC commissioner using for free a publicity firm handling clients very much involved with the SEC?

Municipal Band Planned At Keyser

KEYSER — The possibility of forming a community band for the City of Keyser met with favor here this week as Nunzio Barbera, director of the Keyser High School band, announced that several interested adults had contacted him about the idea.

Barbera explained that several adult former band people had approached him with the idea of starting a community band. If there is enough response for balanced instrumentation, he will organize such a group.

Those interested are requested to contact him as soon as possible, either personally or by mailing a card listing their name and what instrument they play. He said such a musical group would also serve as an outlet for graduating band students who want to continue their practice.

Cleveland Tops Washington, 5-4

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians almost blew a four run lead in the eighth inning Wednesday night but hung on for a 5-4 victory over Washington and snapped a four-game losing streak.

By winning the Indians cut Chicago's American League lead back to 3½ games as the White Sox bowed to Baltimore.

Cal McLish (15-6) was breezing along 5-1 on a five-hitter going into the eighth and seemed a cinch to post his first complete game since July 25. Then the Senators exploded for three runs on Bob Allison's 26th home run and Harmon Killebrew's 37th homer with a man on board.

Bobby Locke came in to halt the uprising and he got last six outs, giving up only an infield single. He struck out three.

Buccos Divide With St. Louis

Drop Opener, 8-6, Bag Nightcap, 4-2

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates whipped the St. Louis Cardinals 4-2 Wednesday night behind the seven-hit pitching of Vernon Law after dropping the playoff of a suspended game to the Cards 8-6 before the regulation contest.

Law, whose record is now 14-7, struck out five and walked three.

In the playoff game, suspended from July 12 because of Pennsylvania's Sunday curfew law, the Pirates had a 5-4 lead with St. Louis batting in the ninth, a runner on first and one out.

Wally Shannon singled off Elroy Face and Flood followed with a two-run triple that gave the Cards a 6-5 lead. The Pirates knotted the score at 6-6 in the ninth on an error by Blasingame, a sacrifice and a single by Don Hoak.

But the Cards bounced back in the 10th and got two game-winning markers on four consecutive singles off pitcher Bob Porterfield, who was charged with the loss.

Democrats Jolt Sports Shoppe From Top, 2-1

Post's Grabs First Place; Old Germans, Red Shield Victors

The South End Democratic Club jolted the Sports Shoppe out of first place in the National Division of the Men's Rec Softball League by whipping the Shoppers yesterday at Naval Reserve Field by the score of 2-1.

Post's Playground took over the leadership with a 15-6 record while the Sports Shoppe dropped into the runner-up spot with 16 wins and 7 losses.

The loss was the second in as many days for the Sports Shoppe and their fourth setback in the last five outings.

Bill Cook went the route for the Democrats and limited the Shoppers to two hits while striking out five. It was his fifth victory against three losses. Rich Smith suffered his sixth loss against 14 victories.

DiNicola's Hit Wins

The Democrats put the game on ice by scoring two runs in the fifth after the Shoppers had taken a 1-0 lead. Gene Payton doubled, Billy Sites walked and Cook singled over the tying run. Then DiNicola doubled home what proved to be the winning marker.

Giles and Method had the only hits for the Sports Shoppe.

Deb Payton excelled at short for the winners.

The Old Germans tightened up the American Division race by trimming the Police and Firemen at Post Field by the score of 15-2.

The K. of C. and Ridgeley Legion are tied for the lead in this division with 17-4 records. The Old Germans are right behind with 18-5.

Doolan Notches 16th

Mike Lease led the attack for the Old Gees with a double and two singles. Eddie Powelson homered and singled, Jerry Willison hit a two-bagger and single and Junior Eversole and Frank Young obtained a pair of base-knocks each for the winners and "Pickles" Doolan notched win No. 16 against four losses. The Old Germans executed double plays in the second, sixth and seventh inning.

Denny Knippenberg, Jimmy Manges and Norris accounted for six of the losers' seven hits. The loss was Knippenberg's third against six triumphs.

Red Shield Reaches .500

Red Shield moved into the .500 class with a 10-10 record in the American Division by defeating Marine Reserve in an eight-inning battle at Fort Hill Field, 6-5.

Bill Burgess doubled home the deciding mark in the extra frame after Ronnie Riggs walked and pilfered second. A homer by Junior O'Neal knotted the score at 5-5 in the bottom of the 7th inning.

Ellis "Turtle" Slonaker, Red Shield twirler, whiffed 13 and bagged his 7th win of the campaign against nine losses. O'Neal, Burgess, Bruce Price and Jimmy Twigg obtained two hits each for Red Shield. O'Neal rapped a double in addition to his homer. Twigg accounted for three of the Marines' six safeties. The scores:

Advances To Finals, Zihlman Winner, 1-0

Barton swept into the final round of the Twilight Baseball League playoffs yesterday by scoring its second straight victory over Westernport on the latter's field by the score of 7-1.

Zihlman evened up its semi-final series with Lonaconing by winning the second game yesterday at Lonaconing by the score of 1-0. 'Coney had won the opening game via the forfeit route when Zihlman was unable to field a team.

Grover "Lefty" Fazenbaker turned back Westernport with four hits and struck out six in pitching Barton's pennant winning Braves into the final series against the winner of the Lonaconing-Zihlman set which ends on Friday at 5:30 p. m., at Zihlman.

Barton scored all its runs in the first three innings and thereatfer was blanked by Sirk. The Westernport hurler gave up seven bases on balls and fanned four.

Woody Symons collected two singles and Mike Muir smacked a two-bagger for Barton. Rucker Cain collected two of Westernport's four hits.

Gracie, whose record was 6-6 during the regular season, tossed a six-hitter, fanned seven and failed to issue a pass. Donald yielded only three hits, fanned four and issued one pass.

The only run of the game was scored in the second inning when "Buck" Winfield singled, Deffenbaugh walked and Downton hit safely. Donald then retired the next 15 batsmen in order Zihlman's other hit was a single by Dick Robeson in the first inning.

Jack Morgan was the winner over Larry Peters in a slab duel as the Jaycees broke a 12-game losing streak to knock B'nai B'rith out of the playoffs. Morgan fanned six and Peters whiffed eight.

Pittsburgh To Retain Murtaugh

Brown Says Danny To Return In 1960

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Pittsburgh Pirate General Manager Joe L. Brown said Wednesday that Danny Murtaugh will be back next year as team manager, dispelling reports that his 1958 Manager of the Year would be fired.

The reports on Murtaugh's status with the Pirates came with more frequency following the team's recent disastrous road trip on which Pittsburgh lost 13 games out of 19. The slump sent the Pirates plummeting from third place, 3½ games out of first, to fifth, 10 games behind the leaders.

"It isn't Danny's fault," Brown said in reference to the team's collapse. "Danny still is one of the best managers in the game.

"But he can't hit for his players. Considering all the injuries and the other things that have overtaken us we should be far down in the race, but we're in fourth place."

The Pirates opened a home stand during the week end, winning three of four from Milwaukee and topping Chicago in a single game to move into the first division.

When asked if Murtaugh might be given a new contract before the season expires, Brown said:

"Sometimes when managers are rehired in the middle of the year, it's because there appears to be some doubt if they'll be back, but we're satisfied with Murtaugh."

Last year Pittsburgh finished second, eight games behind winning Milwaukee. The Pirates made a strong push after the All-Star game, for their highest finish since 1944, winning Murtaugh the Manager of the Year award.

Vets Score Over Caseys, Even Series

Kauffman Victor On 3-Hitter, 4-0

Manager Cecil Grimes' V.F.W. tossers squared accounts with the Knights of Columbus in the Rocking Chair Softball League's semi-final playoffs by beating the Caseys in the second game of the series yesterday by the score of 4-0 at Stitcher Field.

The Knights won the opener of the best-of-three series on Monday by the score of 3-0.

Glenn Kauffman pitched a three-hitter yesterday, struck out two and issued a total of seven bases on balls. Al Sheetz, the loser, yielded eight hits, walked or and failed to strike out a batter.

Ted Durbin's single, an error and Jimmy Eckard's two-base blow gave the Vets their initial run in the opening frame. In the second frame Cage's hit, a sacrifice, an error and "Butch" Johnson's sacrifice fly produced another tally. Two more tallies were added in the sixth when Manager Grimes singled and Eckard blasted a home run to right field.

Eckard was the game's top hitter with a homer and two-bagger. He also batted in three runs.

The "rubber" game of this series is scheduled for Friday at 6 p.m., at Stitcher Field.

Today the Elks engage the Moose at 6 p.m., at Stitcher Field in the second game of their series. The Moose copped the opener by the score of 11-0. Yesterday's score:

Moore Stops Kid Bassey

Scores KO In 11th And Retains Title

LOS ANGELES (AP) — World featherweight champion Davey Moore retained his title Wednesday night when he stopped Hogan (Kid) Bassey of Nigeria in the 11th round of a scheduled 15-round fight.

Moore, 126, had the ex-champion in bad shape at the close of the 10th round and Bassey, 125, was unable to come out for the 11th.

It goes into the record as an 11th-round knockout because the bell had sounded before the fight was stopped.

Moore, of Springfield, Ohio, dethroned Bassey for the title when he stopped him in 13 rounds in this same Olympic Auditorium last March 18.

Bassey's right eye was badly swollen and bruised from the machinegun-fire left hooks and jabs. The ex-champion also suffered a cut at the corner of the left eyebrow in the second round. It bled but did not hamper his efforts too much.

The 25-year-old Yankee went all out in the 10th to score a clean knockout.

Bassey opened the round with a swinging right, but in a moment Dave looped a right to the head that spun Bassey around. Bassey's glove touched the mat, but he did not appear in too much distress at this stage.

Moore rocked Hogan with stunning lefts and rights and had Bassey hanging on in a neutral corner.

Bassey retreated to his own corner, with Davey continuing his relentless head attack when the bell sounded.

There were some boos from the crowd of about 8,000 when Bassey apparently on the advice of his English manager, George Biddles, refused to resume the bout.

In the original fight five months ago, Bassey similarly was held back because of severe cuts over both eyes.

In each fight, Moore was comfortably ahead on points.

Cleveland Tops Washington, 5-4

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians almost blew a four run lead in the eighth inning Wednesday night but hung on for a 5-4 victory over Washington and snapped a four-game losing streak.

By winning the Indians cut Chicago's American League lead back to 3½ games as the White Sox bowed to Baltimore.

Cal McLish (15-6) was breezing along 5-1 on a five-hitter going into the eighth and seemed a cinch to post his first complete game since July 25. Then the Senators exploded for three runs on Bob Allison's 26th home run and Harmon Killebrew's 37th homer with a man on board.

Bobby Locke came in to halt the uprising and he got last six outs, giving up only an infield single. He struck out three.

Buccos Divide With St. Louis

Drop Opener, 8-6, Bag Nightcap, 4-2

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates whipped the St. Louis Cardinals 4-2 Wednesday night behind the seven-hit pitching of Vernon Law after dropping the playoff of a suspended game to the Cards 8-6 before the regulation contest.

Law, whose record is now 14-7, struck out five and walked three.

In the playoff game, suspended from July 12 because of Pennsylvania's Sunday curfew law, the Pirates had a 5-4 lead with St. Louis batting in the ninth, a runner on first and one out.

Wally Shannon singled off Elroy Face and Flood followed with a two-run triple that gave the Cards a 6-5 lead. The Pirates knotted the score at 6-6 in the ninth on an error by Blasingame, a sacrifice and a single by Don Hoak.

But the Cards bounced back in the 10th and got two game-winning markers on four consecutive singles off pitcher Bob Porterfield, who was charged with the loss.

Barton Cops Westernport Series, 7-1

Advances To Finals, Zihlman Winner, 1-0

Barton swept into the final round of the Twilight Baseball League playoffs yesterday by scoring its second straight victory over Westernport on the latter's field by the score of 7-1.

Zihlman evened up its semi-final series with Lonaconing by winning the second game yesterday at Lonaconing by the score of 1-0. 'Coney had won the opening game via the forfeit route when Zihlman was unable to field a team.

Grover "Lefty" Fazenbaker turned back Westernport with four hits and struck out six in pitching Barton's pennant winning Braves into the final series against the winner of the Lonaconing-Zihlman set which ends on Friday at 5:30 p. m., at Zihlman.

Barton scored all its runs in the first three innings and thereafter was blanked by Sirk. The Westernport hurler gave up seven bases on balls and fanned four.

Woody Symons collected two singles and Mike Muir smacked a two-bagger for Barton. Rucker Cain collected two of Westernport's four hits.

Earl Gracie was returned the winner over Carl Donald in a neat pitching duel at Lonaconing.

Gracie, whose record was 6-6 during the regular season, tossed a six-hitter, fanned seven and failed to issue a pass. Donald yielded only three hits, fanned four and issued one pass.

The only run of the game was scored in the second inning when "Buck" Winfield singled, Deffenbaugh walked and Downton hit safely. Donald then retired the next 15 batsmen in order. Zihlman's other hit was a single by Dick Robeson in the first inning.

Pittsburgh To Retain Murtaugh

Brown Says Danny To Return In 1960

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Pittsburgh Pirate General Manager Joe L. Brown said Wednesday that Danny Murtaugh will be back next year as team manager, dispelling reports that his 1958 Manager of the Year would be fired.

The reports on Murtaugh's status with the Pirates came with more frequency following the team's recent disastrous road trip on which Pittsburgh lost 13 games out of 19. The slump sent the Pirates plummeting from third place, 3½ games out of first, to fifth, 10 games behind the leaders.

"It isn't Danny's fault," Brown said in reference to the team's collapse. "Danny still is one of the best managers in the game.

"But he can't hit for his players. Considering all the injuries and the other things that have overtaken us we should be far down in the race, but we're in fourth place."

The Pirates opened a home stand during the week end, winning three of four from Milwaukee and topping Chicago in a single game to move into the first division.

When asked if Murtaugh might be given a new contract before the season expires, Brown said:

"Sometimes when managers are rehired in the middle of the year, it's because there appears to be some doubt if they'll be back, but we're satisfied with Murtaugh."

Last year Pittsburgh finished second, eight games behind winning Milwaukee. The Pirates made a strong push after the All-Star game, for their highest finish since 1944, winning Murtaugh the Manager of the Year award.

Vets Score Over Caseys, Even Series

Kauffman Victor On 3-Hitter, 4-0

Manager Cecil Grimes' V.F.W. tossers squared accounts with the Knights of Columbus in the Rocking Chair Softball League's semi-final playoffs by beating the Caseys in the second game of the series yesterday by the score of 4-0 at Stitcher Field.

The Knights won the opener of the best-of-three series on Monday by the score of 3-0.

Glenn Kauffman pitched a three-hitter yesterday, struck out two and issued a total of seven bases on balls. Al Sheetz, the loser, yielded eight hits, walked or and failed to strike out a batter.

Ted Durbin's single, an error and Jimmy Eckard's two-base blow gave the Vets their initial run in the opening frame. In the second frame Cage's hit, a sacrifice, an error and "Butch" Johnson's sacrifice fly produced another tally. Two more tallies were added in the sixth when Manager Grimes singled and Eckard blasted a home run to right field.

Eckard was the game's top hitter with a homer and two-bagger. He also batted in three runs.

The "rubber" game of this series is scheduled for Friday at 6 p.m., at Stitcher Field.

Today the Elks engage the Moose at 6 p.m., at Stitcher Field in the second game of their series. The Moose copped the opener by the score of 11-0. Yesterday's score:

Moore Stops Kid Bassey

Scores KO In 11th And Retains Title

LOS ANGELES (AP) — World featherweight champion Davey Moore retained his title Wednesday night when he stopped Hogan (Kid) Bassey of Nigeria in the 11th round of a scheduled 15-round fight.

Moore, 126, had the ex-champion in bad shape at the close of the 10th round and Bassey, 125, was unable to come out for the 11th.

It goes into the record as an 11th-round knockout because the bell had sounded before the fight was stopped.

Moore, of Springfield, Ohio, dethroned Bassey for the title when he stopped him in 13 rounds in this same Olympic Auditorium last March 18.

Bassey's right eye was badly swollen and bruised from the machinegun-fire left hooks and jabs. The ex-champion also suffered a cut at the corner of the left eyebrow in the second round. It bled but did not hamper his efforts too much.

The 25-year-old Yankee went all out in the 10th to score a clean knockout.

Bassey opened the round with a swinging right, but in a moment Dave looped a right to the head that spun Bassey around. Bassey's glove touched the mat, but he did not appear in too much distress at this stage.

Moore rocked Hogan with stunning lefts and rights and had Bassey hanging on in a neutral corner.

Bassey retreated to his own corner, with Davey continuing his relentless head attack when the bell sounded.

There were some boos from the crowd of about 8,000 when Bassey apparently on the advice of his English manager, George Biddles, refused to resume the bout.

In the original fight five months ago, Bassey similarly was held back because of severe cuts over both eyes.

In each fight, Moore was comfortably ahead on points.

High Minors Seek 8 Million Damages From New League

Continental May Take Six Cities In AA

Ints May Lose Two, Million Asked For Each City Taken

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP) — Heads of the high minors served notice Wednesday on Branch Rickey and his embryo Continental League to be ready to pay damages amounting to approximately $8,000,000 for invasion of their territories.

Ed Doherty, president of the American Assn., which may lose six of its ten franchises to the newly organized would-be major circuit, said he already has demanded a million dollars indemnity for each of the cities taken.

Houston, Denver and the twin-cities of Minneapolis-St. Paul, all members of the A.A., are among the five founders of the Continental League. The new league also is eyeing the Dallas - Fort Worth area. Toronto of the International League and New York also are definitely in the new loop.

Must Pay For Privilege

"If they (Continental League) think they can operate — and I wish them luck," said Doherty, "let them pay for the privilege. I've got to protect the people who have investments in my league. I don't think anybody has the right to demand territory without paying for the privilege of using it.

"If they take those six cities away from us, the American Assn. is dead. I'd have only four clubs for a nucleus of another league."

Ints Ask Million

Frank Shaughnessy, president of the International League, said he would ask for approximately a million dollars for Toronto and the possible loss of another of his cities, either Montreal or Buffalo.

"They claim they've got millions," said the silvery-haired veteran of more than 50 years in baseball. "Well, they'd better get ready to spend some of it.

"I wish them all the luck in the world—they'll need it. And I sincerely hope they succeed. But if they take any of our cities, there certainly would have to be an indemnity."

Leslie O'Connor, president of the Pacific Coast League said the new league would try to get the best cities and "they can expect to pay substantial compensation."

Men's Shuffle League To Elect Officers Today

Officers will be elected for the 1959-1960 season at a meeting of the Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League today at 8:30 p. m. at the Knights of Columbus Home.

Holdover teams and new teams seeking berths in the league are urged to send representatives to tonight's session.

This will be the 13th season for the league. Twenty teams were represented in the two division circuit last season.

Dapper Cards Rout Dodgers, 13-1; Don Maiers Has 6 RBIs

Sparked by the hitting of Don Maiers, who slammed two triples with the bases loaded and a double and batted in six runs, Manager Jim Ellsworth Cardinals of the Dapper Division defeate l the pennant winning Dodgers of the Dan Division to win the first of the inter-division series in the Dapper Dan Little League yesterday at Constitution Park. The score was 13-1.

The beating was the worst suffered by the Dodgers in 16 games this season.

Fourteen hits were credited to the winning team and in addition to the slugging of Maiers, "Spunk" Perlozzo and Gary Morgan collected three blows each while Dave Price and Gary Lee banged a double and single each.

Ronnie Flora, who posted a 5-0 record for the Dodgers during the regular season, started on the mound and suffered his initial loss. Cross came on in the fifth and finished the game.

Gary Morgan scattered six hits, including a double and single each by Larry Imes and Tommy Stitcher, and struck out nine Dodgers. Flora whiffed five.

The teams will clash in the second game of their best-of-three series today at 6 p.m., at Constitution Park. Yesterday's score:

$840,000 Is Refused For $2,940 Stallion

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—An Australian horsebreeder Wednesday refused $840,000 for a stallion that cost him only $2,940 five years ago. Carl Powell, owner of Rego, said one of the main reasons would be the tax on his profits. Powell said that Rego, a son of the famed Nasrullah and the sire of Mr. Wiggle now racing in the United States, was being sought by a U.S. syndicate. He did not identify its members.

LaVale Orioles Will See Pirates, Dodgers

Beman Scores In Trans-Miss

Marylander Wins Over Dick Hewell

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Walker Cup stars Jack Nicklaus and Deane Beman cruised untroubled through the opening round of match play in the Trans-Mississippi Golf Championship Wednesday night.

But co-medalist Glen Fowler of Oklahoma City came to grief after losing his ball on the 10th hole and was knocked out by Gary Wright, a stretch-running Denver youth who birdied the 18th hole to win.

A half hour before Wright holed out, his father, Denver contractor Claude Wright, defeated Wilson Choelkoff of Dallas 2-up.

Other victims of opening round ambushes included Don Massengale of Jacksboro, Texas, 4 and 2 loser to Jim Nordine, Duluth, Minn., and Dick Foote of Santa Ana, Calif., beaten by Minneapolis Len Bjorklund 1-up.

Nicklaus downed Larry Dahl of Minneapolis 3 and 2.

CHICAGO (UPI)—Billy O'Dell checked the pennant-hungry Chicago White Sox on five hits over eight innings Wednesday to pitch the Baltimore Orioles to a 3-1 victory against the league leaders.

The Oriole southpaw, getting his seventh victory, weathered a spell of wildness in the first inning when he walked two batters after one out. He was working on his first shutout of the season when Sherm Lollar hit his 2-1 pitch for his 18th homer in the eighth inning.

Jerry Walker came on in the ninth for the Orioles and retired the White Sox in order.

The Orioles spread three runs over the first three innings, all off Bob Shaw, who lost his fourth game in 16 decisions. Billy Klaus opened the game with a walk and moved up on Bob Nieman's single. Both advanced on an infield out and scored when Bob Boyd singled through the middle.

A double play helped Shaw out of trouble in the second, but singles by Klaus, Al Pilarcik and Gene Woodling accounted for a run in the third.

O'Dell struck out three and walked four in his eight innings. He was tapped for scattered singles by Lollar, Jim McAnany, and Bubba Phillips before Lollar's homer.

Also shown in the above picture is Fred Joyce, only regular holding over from Bill Hahn's last team which won eight games, lost none and played one tie. Over one hundred candidates reported for the initial drills being held this week. Undefeated and tied once in 19 games over the last two seasons, Fort Hill will open its 1959 campaign with LaSalle on Friday, September 11.

Greenbelt, Washington Win In Legion Tourney

Marylanders Beat Parkersburg, 5-0, At College Park

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Gerry Athey, a muscular righthander, hurled a two-hit shutout Wednesday to lead the Maryland entry over West Virginia 5-0 in the American Legion Junior Baseball Regional Tourney here.

In another game, the defending regional champion from Washington, D.C., defeated the Wilmington, Del., entry 5-3.

Athey's two-hitter gave Greenbelt, Md., its 13th victory in a row and ended the Parkersburg, W. Va., team's streak at 11.

Athey Fans Dozen

The young righthander struck out 12 and walked six in picking up his 10th victory against three defeats. Both hits off him were singles, neither a hard blow.

Athey was in trouble in only one inning, the bottom of the sixth when Parkersburg loaded the bases with two outs on a single by Mike Hayden and two walks. The threat ended when Athey struck out the final batter.

Mike Hammond scored four of the five Greenbelt runs, tallying every time he got on base with three singles and a walk.

The District of Columbia entry capitalized on its eight hits and eight errors by its Wilmington, Del., opponents.

The defending Washington club, Gas Light Post 44, scored four unearned runs in the top of the sixth inning on three hits and three errors to wrap up the game. The rally featured a home run by shortstop Curly Combs.

Delaware got one of its three runs on a homer by lefthand hitter Terry Arnold in the bottom of the sixth.

Panama Plays Today

Panama entry from the Canal Zone will meet the Washington club in a 10 a.m. (EDT) game Thursday at the University of Maryland's Shipley field. West Virginia and Delaware meet in a 2:30 p.m. game.

The tournament is a double elimination affair. Two defeats eliminate a team.

High Minors Seek 8 Million Damages From New League

Continental May Take Six Cities In AA

Ints May Lose Two, Million Asked For Each City Taken

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP) — Heads of the high minors served notice Wednesday on Branch Rickey and his embryo Continental League to be ready to pay damages amounting to approximately $8,000,000 for invasion of their territories.

Ed Doherty, president of the American Assn., which may lose six of its ten franchises to the newly organized would-be major circuit, said he already has demanded a million dollars indemnity for each of the cities taken.

Houston, Denver and the twin-cities of Minneapolis-St. Paul, all members of the A.A., are among the five founders of the Continental League. The new league also is eyeing the Dallas - Fort Worth area. Toronto of the International League and New York also are definitely in the new loop.

Must Pay For Privilege

"If they (Continental League) think they can operate — and I wish them luck," said Doherty, "let them pay for the privilege. I've got to protect the people who have investments in my league. I don't think anybody has the right to demand territory without paying for the privilege of using it.

"If they take those six cities away from us, the American Assn. is dead. I'd have only four clubs for a nucleus of another league."

Ints Ask Million

Frank Shaughnessy, president of the International League, said he would ask for approximately a million dollars for Toronto and the possible loss of another of his cities, either Montreal or Buffalo.

"They claim they've got millions," said the silvery-haired veteran of more than 50 years in baseball. "Well, they'd better get ready to spend some of it.

"I wish them all the luck in the world—they'll need it. And I sincerely hope they succeed. But if they take any of our cities, there certainly would have to be an indemnity."

Leslie O'Connor, president of the Pacific Coast League said the new league would try to get the best cities and "they can expect to pay substantial compensation."

Beman Scores In Trans-Miss

Marylander Wins Over Dick Hewell

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Walker Cup stars Jack Nicklaus and Deane Beman cruised untroubled through the opening round of match play in the Trans-Mississippi Golf Championship Wednesday night.

But co-medalist Glen Fowler of Oklahoma City came to grief after losing his ball on the 10th hole and was knocked out by Gary Wright, a stretch-running Denver youth who birdied the 18th hole to win.

A half hour before Wright holed out, his father, Denver contractor Claude Wright, defeated Wilson Choelkoff of Dallas 2-up.

Other victims of opening round ambushes included Don Massengale of Jacksboro, Texas, 4 and 2 loser to Jim Nordine, Duluth, Minn., and Dick Foote of Santa Ana, Calif., beaten by Minneapolis Len Bjorklund 1-up.

Nicklaus downed Larry Dahl of Minneapolis 3 and 2.

Beman, British amateur champion from Silver Spring, Md., crushed Dick Howell of Minneapolis 6 and 5.

Dapper Cards Rout Dodgers, 13-1; Don Maiers Has 6 RBIs

Sparked by the hitting of Don Maiers, who slammed two triples with the bases loaded and a double and batted in six runs, Manager Jim Ellsworth Cardinals of the Dapper Division defeate l the pennant winning Dodgers of the Dan Division to win the first of the inter-division series in the Dapper Dan Little League yesterday at Constitution Park. $840,000 Is Refused For $2,940 Stallion

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—An Australian horsebreeder Wednesday refused $840,000 for a stallion that cost him only $2,940 five years ago. Carl Powell, owner of Rego, said one of the main reasons would be the tax on his profits. Powell said that Rego, a son of the famed Nasrullah and the sire of Mr. Wiggle now racing in the United States, was being sought by a U.S. syndicate. He did not identify its members.

O'Dell Checks Pennant Hungry White Sox, 3-1

Orioles' Southpaw Posts 7th Victory

CHICAGO (UPI)—Billy O'Dell checked the pennant-hungry Chicago White Sox on five hits over eight innings Wednesday to pitch the Baltimore Orioles to a 3-1 victory against the league leaders.

The Oriole southpaw, getting his seventh victory, weathered a spell of wildness in the first inning when he walked two batters after one out. He was working on his first shutout of the season when Sherm Lollar hit his 2-1 pitch for his 18th homer in the eighth inning.

Jerry Walker came on in the ninth for the Orioles and retired the White Sox in order.

The Orioles spread three runs over the first three innings, all off Bob Shaw, who lost his fourth game in 16 decisions. Billy Klaus opened the game with a walk and moved up on Bob Nieman's single. Both advanced on an infield out and scored when Bob Boyd singled through the middle.

A double play helped Shaw out of trouble in the second, but singles by Klaus, Al Pilarcik and Gene Woodling accounted for a run in the third.

O'Dell struck out three and walked four in his eight innings. He was tapped for scattered singles by Lollar, Jim McAnany, and Bubba Phillips before Lollar's homer.

NEW COACHES TAKE OVER—Fort Hill High School has a new football coaching staff this season in Charles Edward Lattimer (center), head mentor, and Paul L. Flick, left, assistant. Also shown in the above picture is Fred Joyce, only regular holding over from Bill Hahn's last team which won eight games, lost none and played one tie. Joyce played center on the 1957 and 1958 teams. Lattimer was a center at Fort Hill and also at the University of Maryland. Over one hundred candidates reported for the initial drills being held this week. Undefeated and tied once in 19 games over the last two seasons, Fort Hill will open its 1959 campaign with LaSalle on Friday, September 11.

Greenbelt, Washington Win In Legion Tourney

Marylanders Beat Parkersburg, 5-0, At College Park

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Gerry Athey, a muscular right-hander, hurled a two-hit shutout Wednesday to lead the Maryland entry over West Virginia 5-0 in the American Legion Junior Baseball Regional Tourney here.

In another game, the defending regional champion from Washington, D.C., defeated the Wilmington, Del., entry 5-3.

Athey's two-hitter gave Greenbelt, Md., its 13th victory in a row and ended the Parkersburg, W. Va., team's streak at 11.

Athey Fans Dozen

The young righthander struck out 12 and walked six in picking up his 10th victory against three defeats. Both hits off him were singles, neither a hard blow.

Athey was in trouble in only one inning, the bottom of the sixth when Parkersburg loaded the bases with two outs on a single by Mike Hayden and two walks. The threat ended when Athey struck out the final batter.

Mike Hammond scored four of the five Greenbelt runs, tallying every time he got on base with three singles and a walk.

The District of Columbia entry capitalized on its eight hits and eight errors by its Wilmington, Del., opponents.

The defending Washington club, Gas Light Post 44, scored four unearned runs in the top of the sixth inning on three hits and three errors to wrap up the game. The rally featured a home run by shortstop Curly Combs.

Delaware got one of its three runs on a homer by lefthand hitter Terry Arnold in the bottom of the sixth.

Panama Plays Today

Panama entry from the Canal Zone will meet the Washington club in a 10 a.m. (EDT) game Thursday at the University of Maryland's Shipley field. West Virginia and Delaware meet in a 2:30 p.m. game.

The tournament is a double elimination affair. Two defeats eliminate a team.

ABOUT THIS QUESTION

"I sat down and figured what my monthly income from Social Security, pension, and other sources will be. I'll need an extra $50 to $100 per month to retire comfortably. By investing each month in a Retirement Life insurance plan, can I build the extra income during the 12 years until I reach 65?"

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — Ernie Borgnine has been very busy answering questions of his forthcoming marriage to Katy Jurado on Sept. 15, but he hasn't been too busy in the romance department to discuss his next picture. He'll start "Pay Or Die" for Steve Broidy's Allied Artists in October.

This is a very interesting story since it deals with police detective Joseph Petrosino who rounded up the Mafia, or "black hand" as they were called. The courageous Italian detective's story was written up by Burnett Hershey in Reader's Digest, and Ernie, also an Italian, is well cast. Richard Collins has written the script and Richard Wilson, who directed the money-making "Al Capone," will both produce and direct "Pay Or Die."

After 22 hours in the air, director Mike Curtiz landed home from two months in Europe to find a job waiting for him. Samuel Goldwyn Jr., had sent ahead a script of "Huckleberry Finn" with the request that Mike direct his picture.

Said Sammy, "Mike did so well by me in 'Proud Rebel,' I can't see any other director — so he'll start work tomorrow." Mike directed "A Bit Of Scandal" with Sophia Loren in Vienna and Italy.

Sammy and his attractive wife celebrated nine years of happy marriage on Sunday. I couldn't believe it when he told me it was nine years ago that he married the former Jennifer Howard.

Anna Maria Alberghetti is Jerry Wald's choice to replace Diane Varsi who has told him she will not come back. He said today that when he talked to Diane she had enrolled in school for the fall term at Bennington, Vt.

"'Return To Peyton Place' starts in November," said Jerry, "and I can't be left without an actress to play the role of Allison, which, after all, is one of the top characters. Although Anna Maria has a beautiful singing voice, I think she is even a better actress.

"Buddy Adler has signed Bob Evans for the ski instructor," said Jerry, "and I think he'll sign Anna Maria since Diane refuses to return."

There will be no change in the ending of the movie "The Life Of Admiral Halsey" which was made by Robert Montgomery and James Cagney. The picture starts with the admiral holding his retirement papers in his hand, then flashes back to his bravery on Guadalcanal and his wonderful career in the Navy during World War II.

The admiral was looking forward to Oct. 30, his 77th birthday, when Bob and Jimmy planned to release his picture. So many of us in Hollywood met the late Admiral "Bull" at various times when he visited here. He was a close friend of Rear Adm. Gene Markey, and was best man at Gene's marriage to Myrna Loy.

Writer Ivan Moffatt, who came very close to marrying Lady Caroline Freud, will be the most surprised bachelor in town when he reads that Lady Caroline was quietly married last Friday to Israel Citkowitz in Yonkers, N.Y. Citkowitz, who is a well-known eastern composer, also teaches music.

Lady Caroline met her new husband about four months ago when composer Leonard Rosemann suggested that she telephone Citkowitz to say hello for him. She did just that and they made a date—and it was a case of love at first sight.

Sue Ladd called to tell me that they found a boy named David to star in "Raymie and the Barracuda"—not David Eisenhower but David Ladd, that fine little actor. And David (Ladd's) feelings aren't at all hurt that the first bid went to the grandson of President Eisenhower.

Frankly, Master Ladd has almost more movie offers than he can fill and keep up with his schooling. He's just back from a location jaunt to Holland making "Dog of Flanders." And he starts "Raymie" immediately for producer A. C. Lyles in order to get the Allied Artists movie completed before school starts in late September.

Bull Invades Stands

BAZA, Spain (UPI)—A young bull scrambled over the barrier into the stands during a bull fight Tuesday night and an estimated 100 fans were injured slightly in the resultant confusion. The bull knocked down a number of spectators and others were injured in the flight to get out of his way. The animal was trapped and killed by civil guards.

Franco Spears Whale

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain (UPI)—A 30-ton whale speared by Generalissimo Francisco Franco was towed into this port Tuesday by the Spanish Warship Nervion. The whale was the second caught by Franco this month in fishing expeditions aboard his yacht, Azor. The Nervion usually accompanies the Azor on its fishing missions.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — Ernie Borgnine has been very busy answering questions of his forthcoming marriage to Katy Jurado on Sept. 15, but he hasn't been too busy in the romance department to discuss his next picture. He'll start "Pay Or Die" for Steve Broidy's Allied Artists in October.

This is a very interesting story since it deals with police detective Joseph Petrosino who rounded up the Mafia, or "black hand" as they were called. The courageous Italian detective's story was written up by Burnett Hershey in Reader's Digest, and Ernie, also an Italian, is well cast. Richard Collins has written the script and Richard Wilson, who directed the money-making "Al Capone," will both produce and direct "Pay Or Die."

After 22 hours in the air, director Mike Curtiz landed home from two months in Europe to find a job waiting for him. Samuel Goldwyn Jr., had sent ahead a script of "Huckleberry Finn" with the request that Mike direct his picture.

Said Sammy, "Mike did so well by me in 'Proud Rebel,' I can't see any other director — so he'll start work tomorrow." Mike directed "A Bit Of Scandal" with Sophia Loren in Vienna and Italy.

Sammy and his attractive wife celebrated nine years of happy marriage on Sunday. I couldn't believe it when he told me it was nine years ago that he married the former Jennifer Howard.

Anna Maria Alberghetti is Jerry Wald's choice to replace Diane Varsi who has told him she will not come back. He said today that when he talked to Diane she had enrolled in school for the fall term at Bennington, Vt.

"'Return To Peyton Place' starts in November," said Jerry, "and I can't be left without an actress to play the role of Allison, which, after all, is one of the top characters. Although Anna Maria has a beautiful singing voice, I think she is even a better actress.

"Buddy Adler has signed Bob Evans for the ski instructor," said Jerry, "and I think he'll sign Anna Maria since Diane refuses to return."

There will be no change in the ending of the movie "The Life Of Admiral Halsey" which was made by Robert Montgomery and James Cagney. The picture starts with the admiral holding his retirement papers in his hand, then flashes back to his bravery on Guadalcanal and his wonderful career in the Navy during World War II.

The admiral was looking forward to Oct. 30, his 77th birthday, when Bob and Jimmy planned to release his picture. So many of us in Hollywood met the late Admiral "Bull" at various times when he visited here. He was a close friend of Rear Adm. Gene Markey, and was best man at Gene's marriage to Myrna Loy.

Writer Ivan Moffatt, who came very close to marrying Lady Caroline Freud, will be the most surprised bachelor in town when he reads that Lady Caroline was quietly married last Friday to Israel Citkowitz in Yonkers, N.Y. Citkowitz, who is a well-known eastern composer, also teaches music.

Lady Caroline met her new husband about four months ago when composer Leonard Rosemann suggested that she telephone Citkowitz to say hello for him. She did just that and they made a date—and it was a case of love at first sight.

Sue Ladd called to tell me that they found a boy named David to star in "Raymie and the Barracuda"—not David Eisenhower but David Ladd, that fine little actor. And David (Ladd's) feelings aren't at all hurt that the first bid went to the grandson of President Eisenhower.

Frankly, Master Ladd has almost more movie offers than he can fill and keep up with his schooling. He's just back from a location jaunt to Holland making "Dog of Flanders." And he starts "Raymie" immediately for producer A. C. Lyles in order to get the Allied Artists movie completed before school starts in late September.

Bull Invades Stands

BAZA, Spain (UPI)—A young bull scrambled over the barrier into the stands during a bull fight Tuesday night and an estimated 100 fans were injured slightly in the resultant confusion. The bull knocked down a number of spectators and others were injured in the flight to get out of his way. The animal was trapped and killed by civil guards.

ABOUT THIS QUESTION
"I set down and figured what my monthly income from Social Security, pension, and other sources will be. I'll need an extra $50 to $100 per month to retire comfortably. By investing each month in a Retirement Life insurance plan, can I build the extra income during the 12 years until I reach 65?"

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Grains were mixed Wednesday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the close, wheat was up ¼ to ½; corn off ⅛ to up ⅛; oats off ¼; new oats off 1¼ to up ⅛; rye off ¼ to ⅝; soybeans off ⅛ to up ⅜, and lard unchanged to up 13 points.

Wheat prices advanced at mid-session on scattered commission house buying. Mills bought some December. Elevator houses sold March and December. Export sales added further support to the market.

Corn was steady. Commercial houses bought September and December. Other commercial traders were active sellers. Receipts were larger by truck than rail. Export subsidies were granted overnight on 1,120,000 bushels of corn. Bids on oats and rye were rejected.

Oats were mostly steady. Northwest brokers sold March and bought September. Commission houses bought March.

Rye held mostly steady through most of the session but closed easy. Cash houses sold on the bulges.

Soybeans opened strong and closed steady. Scattered commission house buying absorbed early offerings. Purchases were mostly small and scattered.

Poland and Yugoslavia were reported to have bought hard wheat, and Norway and Japan were buyers of soybeans.

Oils were higher, and meals were mixed.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Grains were mixed Wednesday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the close, wheat was up ¾ to 1½; corn off ⅛ to up ⅛; oats off ¼; new oats off 1¼ to up ⅛; rye off ¼ to ⅝; soybeans off ⅛ to up ⅜, and lard unchanged to up 13 points.

Wheat prices advanced at mid-session on scattered commission house buying. Mills bought some December. Elevator houses sold March and December. Export sales added further support to the market.

Corn was steady. Commercial houses bought September and December. Other commercial traders were active sellers. Receipts were larger by truck than rail. Export subsidies were granted overnight on 1,120,000 bushels of corn. Bids on oats and rye were rejected.

Oats were mostly steady. Northwest brokers sold March and bought September. Commission houses bought March.

Rye held mostly steady through most of the session but closed easy. Cash houses sold on the bulges.

Soybeans opened strong and closed steady. Scattered commission house buying absorbed early offerings. Purchases were mostly small and scattered.

Poland and Yugoslavia were reported to have bought hard wheat, and Norway and Japan were buyers of soybeans.

Oils were higher, and meals were mixed.

Opening lead: Six of ♦.

In a hand taken from a recent team of four match, a fickle fate discriminated against one North and South pair, who contracted for a small slam and were defeated, whereas their opponents, at the other table, undertook a less sound obligation to win all the tricks and brought them safely home.

The six if diamonds was selected for the opening lead at both tables. Where commitment is to win 13 tricks, everything hinged on the ability to avoid losing to the queen of trumps. With a holding of eight trumps finesse is, on percentage, superior to the play for the drop, and since the finesse against East could be taken on the second round, declarer properly led first toward the king and then finessed successfully on the return. When spades broke he picked up the suit and ran 13 tricks.

Trying for the small slam, there is a sounder way to play the hand, one that does not place declarer at the mercy of the spade finesse. South chose to play the king and ace of spades first. If the queen happened to be doubleton, there was nothing more to the narrative. But if the queen did not fall, assuming spades were 3-2, declarer could then run his hearts, and, if both opponents followed to two rounds of the suit, he could discard the losing diamond on the third round of hearts. If an opponent ruffed in on the third round it would be with a high trump, while South was shedding his only loser.

Trumps broke, 3-2, and all appeared to be serene until East ruffed the second round of hearts and West rudely took the setting trick in diamonds. There can be no doubt as to the superiority of South's line of play at the small slam contract, but it appeared to be one of those days when virtue was not destined to triumph.

Rome's Colosseum, the world's largest amphitheater, was constructed in 80 A. D. Built by the Emperor Titus, it was inaugurated with a blood bath of matches between gladiators and wild beasts. Until recently, Romans used the Colosseum as a marble quarry.

In a hand taken from a recent team of four match, a fickle fate discriminated against one North and South pair, who contracted for a small slam and were defeated, whereas their opponents, at the other table, undertook a less sound obligation to win all the tricks and brought them safely home.

The six if diamonds was selected for the opening lead at both tables. Where commitment is to win 13 tricks, everything hinged on the ability to avoid losing to the queen of trumps. With a holding of eight trumps finesse is, on percentage, superior to the play for the drop, and since the finesse against East could be taken on the second round, declarer properly led first toward the king and then finessed successfully on the return. When spades broke he picked up the suit and ran 13 tricks.

Trying for the small slam, there is a sounder way to play the hand, one that does not place declarer at the mercy of the spade finesse. South chose to play the king and ace of spades first. If the queen happened to be doubleton, there was nothing more to the narrative. But if the queen did not fall, assuming spades were 3-2, declarer could then run his hearts, and, if both opponents followed to two rounds of the suit, he could discard the losing diamond on the third round of hearts. If an opponent ruffed in on the third round it would be with a high trump, while South was shedding his only loser.

Trumps broke, 3-2, and all appeared to be serene until East ruffed the second round of hearts and West rudely took the setting trick in diamonds. There can be no doubt as to the superiority of South's line of play at the small slam contract, but it appeared to be one of those days when virtue was not destined to triumph.

Water Rates Will Go Up September 1

Out-Of-City Users To Pay 85% More Than Residents

Two ordinances increasing water and service charges by the Water Department of Cumberland were passed yesterday by the Mayor and Council during a special meeting in City Hall.

Water Commissioner G. Ray Light said in a statement that under the new rates, an out-of-city user wil' be paying about 85 per cent more than a city customer.

He said the entire rate structure of the department has been under study for almost a year and the last increase was effective July 1, 1955. On September 1 this year the new rates become effective, he added.

Since the last increase, costs of labor have increased as well as costs of materials, according to Commissioner Light, who said the assistant city engineer-sanitary is now making plans for the improvement of the entire water system of the city.

Improvements Needed

Some lines, he said, predate 1912, when Lake Gordon was constructed, and of necessity such lines will be replaced just as soon as funds are available.

Many customers residing within the city limits do not have sufficient water pressure, and Mr. Light said water lines must be extended to other areas in the city so the area can be developed for home sites.

He said the Mayor and Council realizes that it must provide city services to property lying within the city limits if the city is to grow.

"Increasing rates for any service is not popular," he added, "but the water distribution system as well as its various facilities must be continually improved and renewed on a systematic basis so that all customers will continue to receive water at the most economic rate for which the city is able to furnish the same."

Residents Come First

In referring to out-of-city customers, Commissioner Light said the city wants to cooperate with all area residents but cannot do so at the expense of its own residents.

Commissioner Light said he has been advised by the assistant city engineer-sanitary that if at all possible, the city should place meters on its various lines at the point where lines leave the city and thereafter the repair, maintenance and relocation of the lines will be the responsibility of the out-of-city customer.

Commissioner Light said:

"I realize that such a project cannot be put into effect immediately; however, it is to the benefit and advantage of all concerned for each section outside the city to have its own water company, such as LaVale and Cresaptown . . . .

"We are very much concerned at the present time with any relocations that may be necessary for the high pressure line running to the Celanese and Cresaptown, as a substantial portion of the same will undoubtedly have to be relocated when Route 220 is made a dual highway.

"Such relocation should certainly be at the expense of the customers involved and not the other customers of the city water system."

Commissioner Light said he wanted to assure all customers of the city water system that rates will remain "just as reasonable as possible."

James Twigg, chief clerk in the water department, pointed out that the service increase within the city includes a $2 fee for turn-on and turn-off of water and a similar fee for meter checks or miscellaneous services.

Minimum Rates Raised

Up until now, he said, the turn-on fee has not been enforced. Every flat-rate water customer in the city must have a meter installed by January 1, 1961 at the customer's expense, he said.

The minimum flat rate in the city formerly was $7, with the average rate about $11.35. The rate increase calls for a minimum flat rate of $12. There is no flat rate charge outside the city.

Mr. Twigg pointed out that there will be an increase in rates to water companies outside the city limits which are furnished water by the city department. The rate will vary, he said.

Outside the city limits, however, the water rates will increase from $6.75 to $10; tappage fees, $75 to $125; meter fees from $30 to $75; turn-on and turn-off fees, $5 each; meter check, $10 (upon request of customer); and miscellaneous services, $5.

Two former members of the staff at the Amcelle plant have been named new vice presidents of the Celanese Fibers Company, an operating division of the Celanese Corporation of America.

They are Fletcher Horn and David Taylor. Also named as vice presidents by the firm were Dr. Bruce B. Allen and Peter H. Conze.

Mr. Horn joined Celanese in 1940, working initially in dyeing operations at the local plant. In 1952 he became assistant to the manager of fiber plant operations, and three years later was named executive secretary of the former fibers division's coordination committee.

Since 1957, Mr. Horn has been assistant to the general manager of the company's former fibers division. He is a graduate of Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Mr. Taylor joined Celanese in 1942 and served in various technical and manufacturing capacities at Amcelle plant and at the company's plant in Narrows, Va.

In 1954, he was sent to Charlotte, N.C., to help establish the fiber development laboratories. For a time he directed extrusion operations there.

Prior to becoming manager of fiber manufacturing in 1958, Mr. Taylor served as manager of fiber manufacturing development. He is a 1937 graduate of Concord State Teachers College.

Dr. Allen has been technical director of the company former fibers division for the past three years and Mr. Conze has been director of textile marketing for the last two years.

Consolidated's New Apple Attracts Fair Visitors

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

A brand new patented early eating apple is attracting a great deal of attention this week at the 42d annual Cumberland Fair, according to Floyd Buser, who serves as superintendent of the horticultural department at Fairgo.

This new apple, displayed for the first time under the grandstand at the annual agricultural exposition, is produced only by the Consolidated Orchard Company of Paw Paw, W. Va., which has 51,000 apple trees in Morgan and Hampshire counties in West Virginia and in Allegany County.

Henry W. Miller Jr. of the Consolidated Orchard Company explained yesterday that this new apple, called the Miller Red, is one of three on which Consolidated holds patents.

All three patented apples, Miller Red, Red Queen and Red Prince, are the results of freaks of nature. They started as "sports" or individual limbs different from all the other limbs on a tree.

Mr. Miller explained that these different limbs are grafted or budded onto other trees and if the second generation is like the freak, a new variety is the result.

This Miller Red variety was first discovered on one of the Consolidated orchards near Slanesville in Hampshire County. It is the most promising of the three new varieties because it ripens in August before the other apples can get onto the market. Mr. Miller asserts that the Miller Red has strong possibilities because it has good high color and excellent quality.

This new variety picked up a rather influential booster Tuesday afternoon when R. Nelson Phelps, executive secretary of the State Fair Board, ate one at Fairgo. He was enthusiastic in his praise of the Miller Red and emphasized that the spreading of new ideas in agriculture is one of the basic objectives of fairs.

Mr. Miller said small quantities of the Miller Red apples are being shipped to market this month. Last year was the first time any were sold commercially. The Paw Paw orchardist said the Miller Reds are selling for about $6 a bushel in the Pittsburgh and Miami markets, which normally are $3 apple markets.

The Red Queen and Red Prince apples are offshoots of the Delicious variety. They redden in August but ordinarily are not harvested until September, when other varieties are beginning to enter the market. The Red Queen had its origin on the Consolidated orchard on Irons Mountain in Allegany County.

Railway To Furlough

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Western Maryland Railway announced Wednesday it is furloughing 250 of its 4,000 employes because of the prolonged strike in the steel industry.

The layoffs will be spread throughout the system and will affect all departments, including maintenance, operating and clerical personnel. There was no breakdown available.

This is the first furlough action of the Western Maryland since the strike began July 15. The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad has furloughed 3,400 of its 35,000 employes and the Pennsylvania Railroad has laid off 6,200.

W. Arthur Grotz, president of Western Maryland, said the steel industry is the largest single customer of the railroad. He said the company's financial statement for July showed a decrease and that carloadings for this month are running slightly below those for July.

City Playgrounds End Activities Tomorrow

Another sure sign that the summer season is drawing to a close is that the 14 playlots of the city will wind up activities tomorrow.

C. Eugene Mason, director of the city recreation department, said yesterday that a final picnic or party will be held on most of the playlots.

The boy or girl who received the most ribbons for winning the most activities at each playground during the summer season will be given a prize, according to Mr. Mason.

This season there was a total registration of 3,256 children on the playlots. Last year there were 15 playlots and 21 leaders in comparison to the 14 leaders this year.

Small equipment used by the children, including basketballs, shuffle boards and box hockey, will be collected and stored in the city warehouse on Valley Street after the close of the playlot activities tomorrow.

Larger equipment, including swings, see-saws and sliding boards will remain up for several more weeks for use by the children, and will be stored later on.

Mr. Mason said that all equipment will be repaired and repainted for use during the summer season next year.

Conlon Named To University Study Group

Will Probe Problems Of Board Of Regents

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes Wednesday named a committee to study the problems of membership on the Board of Regents at the University of Maryland.

Chairman of the seven-member group will be Sen. Mary Nock (D-Wicomico), who sponsored the resolution calling for the study.

Other members are Herbert Hoopes of Forest Hill, Harford County, a former master of the State Grange; Del. Thomas F. Conlon (D-Allegany); Otis M. Trice, principal of Cambridge High School; Alonzo G. Decker of Towson, Mrs. Harry Friedman of Baltimore and Ward Fetrow of Gaithersburg.

The committee is charged "to study the most effective composition of the Board of Regents" and report its findings to the 1960 General Assembly.

Result Of Resolution

The resolution, adopted in the last days of the 1959 General Assembly, noted there had been "considerable controversy" on the subject during the session.

Del. Machen (D-Prince Georges) started the controversy when he threatened to call for a legislative investigation of the administration of the university under President Wilson H. Elkins.

Machen said he wanted "to put down unrest" among students and alumni over the university administration and "to take the university out of politics."

He said the proposal stemmed from the controversy over the school's football fortunes and its academic status.

High scholastic standards had been blamed in some quarters for Maryland's declining football fortunes.

By contrast, standards in effect before Elkins' arrival at the university five years ago had been criticized as too lax and were among reasons the institution was placed on probation—or qualified accreditation — by the Middle States Assn. of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

Conflicting Criticism

Machen dropped his threat to call for the legislative investigation but became principal sponsor of a bill to expand the Board of Regents from 11 to 15 members and give majority control of the board to alumni.

The bill was killed in the House Education Committee.

Machen had expressed the hope that a "revitalized board would be more sensitive to the problems and shortcomings" of the administration.

Among those "shortcomings" he listed was "failure. . .to live up to its publicity releases designed to convince the public that academic standards have been significantly raised when in fact they have not."

Elkins succeeded Dr. H. C. Byrd as president of the university when Byrd retired to run for governor.

At 7:30 p.m. a rock 'n roll contest for all weekly winners will be held, and the couple winning these finals will receive a trophy. Winners of weekly events will be awarded prizes.

After the awards and contest, there will be dancing until 8:30 p.m., when movies will be shown and refreshments served.

Residents Escape Quakes

Two area persons who flew to Salt Lake City two weeks ago for a visit felt the tremors of the earthquakes which rocked mountain country of southwest Montana near Yellowstone National Park on Monday and Tuesday.

Frank Shrout, 76, RD 1, Ridgeley, and his grandson, Michael Brown, 24, Frankfort Road, felt the tremors but were not injured.

The grandson was shaken off a mattress of a rented auto and trailer in which they were traveling. At the time they did not know what had happened, but they were able to get out by the only road open out of Yellowstone National Park.

They saw others being evacuated in helicopters. Mrs. William A. Brown, Frankfort Road, mother of Michael, received a telephone call from him on Tuesday evening.

The two area residents flew to Salt Lake City to visit Mrs. Brown's brother, James Shrout, who was formerly employed at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory at Pinto and was transferred to Utah.

Most City Workers To Get Pay Raises Starting Sept. 16

When the Mayor and Council unanimously approved appropriations calling for the expenditure of $2,099,510 in the present fiscal year during a meeting yesterday, nearly all city employes were given a wage boost.

An order passed at the special meeting stipulates the increase in wages will become effective on the first payroll period ending in September and payable on September 16 this year in accordance with the classification of the hourly or monthly paid employes.

The budget includes $1,603,659.75 for operating expenses, $245,850.75 for coupons and bonds for debt service, and $250,000 for operation, maintenance and debt service for sewage treatment and sanitary sewers.

The budget is for the fiscal year beginning July 1 and ending June 30, 1960.

No Percentage Raises

There were no percentage increases in the pay boosts, according to Mayor J. Edwin Keech, who said the wage increases were made as fairly as possible "with what we have on hand."

The increases total about $90,000, the amount the city expects to realize from state gas and auto revenues after the $300,000 Thruway bond issue is sold and the city's monetary obligation to the state is met.

Table of city employes' present and new salaries on page 12.

The pay increases are the first general boosts which have been made since 1955, although there have been some scattered increases since then.

Funds in the budget ordinance are based on the levy ordinance adopted Monday, which provides that $1,253,080 of the levy will be raised from the $1.56 tax rate on property.

New Items Included

Some of the items included in this year's budget which were not listed last year included $11,000 for sewer and utility relocation, $68,700 for street and sewer work, $56,400 for a five-year street construction plan, and $25,000 for storm sewers.

The budget also includes an increase of $35,700 for the Police Department and a hike of $22,100 for the Fire Department. Last year the police appropriation was $252,400 compared to this year's figure of $288,100, while last year the Fire Department was allotted $261,200 compared to $283,300 for the coming 12 months.

The Recreation Department was granted a $1,500 increase over last year's appropriation of $35,000.

The allotment for the city employes' pension plan this year will be $96,800 compared to last year's allowance of $90,200, or an increase of $6,600.

Other Appropriations

The budget also included a $1,500 hike for the Cumberland Airport with an appropriation of $15,600 compared to last year's total of $14,000.

The council approved a budget of $27,000 for the Cumberland Free Public Library, the same figure allowed last year.

A few of the decreases noted in this year's budget include $3,300 less for operation of City Hall and $3,000 less for street lighting.

The allowance for streets and alleys totaled $178,400 in this year's budget, an increase of $10,600 over last year's total of $167,800.

Water Rates Will Go Up September 1

Out-Of-City Users To Pay 85% More Than Residents

Two ordinances increasing water and service charges by the Water Department of Cumberland were passed yesterday by the Mayor and Council during a special meeting in City Hall.

Water Commissioner G. Ray Light said in a statement that under the new rates, an out-of-city user will be paying about 85 per cent more than a city customer.

He said the entire rate structure of the department has been under study for almost a year and the last increase was effective July 1, 1955. On September 1 this year the new rates become effective, he added.

Since the last increase, costs of labor have increased as well as costs of materials, according to Commissioner Light, who said the assistant city engineer-sanitary is now making plans for the improvement of the entire water system of the city.

Improvements Needed

Some lines, he said, predate 1912, when Lake Gordon was constructed, and of necessity such lines will be replaced just as soon as funds are available.

Many customers residing within the city limits do not have sufficient water pressure, and Mr. Light said water lines must be extended to other areas in the city so the area can be developed for home sites.

He said the Mayor and Council realizes that it must provide city services to property lying within the city limits if the city is to grow.

"Increasing rates for any service is not popular," he added, "but the water distribution system as well as its various facilities must be continually improved and renewed on a systematic basis so that all customers will continue to receive water at the most economic rate for which the city is able to furnish the same."

Residents Come First

In referring to out-of-city customers, Commissioner Light said the city wants to cooperate with all area residents but cannot do so at the expense of its own residents.

Commissioner Light said he has been advised by the assistant city engineer-sanitary that if at all possible, the city should place meters on its various lines at the point where lines leave the city and thereafter the repair, maintenance and relocation of the lines will be the responsibility of the out-of-city customer.

Commissioner Light said:

"I realize that such a project cannot be put into effect immediately; however, it is to the benefit and advantage of all concerned for each section outside the city to have its own water company, such as LaVale and Cresaptown . . . .

"We are very much concerned at the present time with any relocations that may be necessary for the high pressure line running to the Celanese and Cresaptown, as a substantial portion of the same will undoubtedly have to be relocated when Route 220 is made a dual highway.

"Such relocation should certainly be at the expense of the customers involved and not the other customers of the city water system."

Commissioner Light said he wanted to assure all customers of the city water system that rates will remain "just as reasonable as possible."

James Twigg, chief clerk in the water department, pointed out that the service increase within the city includes a $2 fee for turn-on and turn-off of water and a similar fee for meter checks or miscellaneous services.

Minimum Rates Raised

Up until now, he said, the turn-on fee has not been enforced. Every flat-rate water customer in the city must have a meter installed by January 1, 1961 at the customer's expense, he said.

The minimum flat rate in the city formerly was $7, with the average rate about $11.35. The rate increase calls for a minimum flat rate of $12. There is no flat rate charge outside the city.

Mr. Twigg pointed out that there will be an increase in rates to water companies outside the city limits which are furnished water by the city department. The rate will vary, he said.

Outside the city limits, however, the water rates will increase from $6.75 to $10; tappage fees, $75 to $125; meter fees from $30 to $75; turn-on and turn-off fees, $5 each; meter check, $10 (upon request of customer); and miscellaneous services, $5.

Since 1957, Mr. Horn has been assistant to the general manager of the company's former fibers division. He is a graduate of Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Mr. Taylor joined Celanese in 1942 and served in various technical and manufacturing capacities at Amcelle plant and at the company's plant in Narrows, Va.

In 1954, he was sent to Charlotte, N.C., to help establish the fiber development laboratories. For a time he directed extrusion operations there.

Prior to becoming manager of fiber manufacturing in 1958, Mr. Taylor served as manager of fiber manufacturing development. He is a 1937 graduate of Concord State Teachers College.

Consolidated's New Apple Attracts Fair Visitors

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

A brand new patented early eating apple is attracting a great deal of attention this week at the 42d annual Cumberland Fair, according to Floyd Buser, who serves as superintendent of the horticultural department at Fairgo.

This new apple, displayed for the first time under the grandstand at the annual agricultural exposition, is produced only by the Consolidated Orchard Company of Paw Paw, W. Va., which has 51,000 apple trees in Morgan and Hampshire counties in West Virginia and in Allegany County.

Henry W. Miller Jr. of the Consolidated Orchard Company explained yesterday that this new apple, called the Miller Red, is one of three on which Consolidated holds patents.

All three patented apples, Miller Red, Red Queen and Red Prince, are the results of freaks of nature. They started as "sports" or individual limbs different from all the other limbs on a tree.

Mr. Miller explained that these different limbs are grafted or budded onto other trees and if the second generation is like the freak, a new variety is the result.

This Miller Red variety was first discovered on one of the Consolidated orchards near Slanesville in Hampshire County. It is the most promising of the three new varieties because it ripens in August before the other apples can get onto the market. Mr. Miller asserts that the Miller Red has strong possibilities because it has good high color and excellent quality.

This new variety picked up a rather influential booster Tuesday afternoon when R. Nelson Phelps, executive secretary of the State Fair Board, ate one at Fairgo. He was enthusiastic in his praise of the Miller Red and emphasized that the spreading of new ideas in agriculture is one of the basic objectives of fairs.

Mr. Miller said small quantities of the Miller Red apples are being shipped to market this month. Last year was the first time any were sold commercially. The Paw Paw orchardist said the Miller Reds are selling for about $6 a bushel in the Pittsburgh and Miami markets, which normally are $3 apple markets.

The Red Queen and Red Prince apples are offshoots of the Delicious variety. They redden in August but ordinarily are not harvested until September, when other varieties are beginning to enter the market. The Red Queen had its origin on the Consolidated orchard on Irons Mountain in Allegany County.

Grace Baptist Accepts Bid For Church Work

The congregation of Grace Baptist Church last night voted unanimously to accept the bid of $115,000 by the Robeson Construction to build a new sanctuary and classrooms.

Railway To Furlough

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Western Maryland Railway announced Wednesday it is furloughing 250 of its 4,000 employes because of the prolonged strike in the steel industry.

The layoffs will be spread throughout the system and will affect all departments, including maintenance, operating and clerical personnel. There was no breakdown available.

This is the first furlough action of the Western Maryland since the strike began July 15. The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad has furloughed 3,400 of its 35,000 employes and the Pennsylvania Railroad has laid off 6,200.

W. Arthur Grotz, president of Western Maryland, said the steel industry is the largest single customer of the railroad. He said the company's financial statement for July showed a decrease and that carloadings for this month are running slightly below those for July.

City Playgrounds End Activities Tomorrow

Another sure sign that the summer season is drawing to a close is that the 14 playlots of the city will wind up activities tomorrow.

C. Eugene Mason, director of the city recreation department, said yesterday that a final picnic or party will be held on most of the playlots.

The boy or girl who received the most ribbons for winning the most activities at each playground during the summer season will be given a prize, according to Mr. Mason.

This season there was a total registration of 3,256 children on the playlots. Last year there were 15 playlots and 21 leaders in comparison to the 14 leaders this year.

Small equipment used by the children, including basketballs, shuffle boards and box hockey, will be collected and stored in the city warehouse on Valley Street after the close of the playlot activities tomorrow.

Larger equipment, including swings, see-saws and sliding boards will remain up for several more weeks for use by the children, and will be stored later on.

Mr. Mason said that all equipment will be repaired and repainted for use during the summer season next year.

Conlon Named To University Study Group

Will Probe Problems Of Board Of Regents

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes Wednesday named a committee to study the problems of membership on the Board of Regents at the University of Maryland.

Chairman of the seven-member group will be Sen. Mary Nock (D-Wicomico), who sponsored the resolution calling for the study.

Other members are Herbert Hoopes of Forest Hill, Harford County, a former master of the State Grange; Del. Thomas F. Conlon (D-Allegany); Otis M. Trice, principal of Cambridge High School; Alonzo G. Decker of Towson, Mrs. Harry Friedman of Baltimore and Ward Fetrow of Gaithersburg.

The committee is charged "to study the most effective composition of the Board of Regents" and report its findings to the 1960 General Assembly.

Result Of Resolution

The resolution, adopted in the last days of the 1959 General Assembly, noted there had been "considerable controversy" on the subject during the session.

Del. Machen (D-Prince Georges) started the controversy when he threatened to call for a legislative investigation of the administration of the university under President Wilson H. Elkins.

Machen said he wanted "to put down unrest" among students and alumni over the university administration and "to take the university out of politics."

He said the proposal stemmed from the controversy over the school's football fortunes and its academic status.

High scholastic standards had been blamed in some quarters for Maryland's declining football fortunes.

By contrast, standards in effect before Elkins' arrival at the university five years ago had been criticized as too lax and were among reasons the institution was placed on probation—or qualified accreditation — by the Middle States Assn. of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

Conflicting Criticism

Machen dropped his threat to call for the legislative investigation but became principal sponsor of a bill to expand the Board of Regents from 11 to 15 members and give majority control of the board to alumni.

The bill was killed in the House Education Committee.

Machen had expressed the hope that a "revitalized board would be more sensitive to the problems and shortcomings" of the administration.

Among those "shortcomings" he listed was "failure. . .to live up to its publicity releases designed to convince the public that academic standards have been significantly raised when in fact they have not."

Elkins succeeded Dr. H. C. Byrd as president of the university when Byrd retired to run for governor.

Residents Escape Quakes

Two area persons who flew to Salt Lake City two weeks ago for a visit felt the tremors of the earthquakes which rocked mountain country of southwest Montana near Yellowstone National Park on Monday and Tuesday.

Frank Shrout, 76, RD 1, Ridgeley, and his grandson, Michael Brown, 24, Frankfort Road, felt the tremors but were not injured.

The grandson was shaken off a mattress of a rented auto and trailer in which they were traveling. At the time they did not know what had happened, but they were able to get out by the only road open out of Yellowstone National Park.

They saw others being evacuated in helicopters. Mrs. William A. Brown, Frankfort Road, mother of Michael, received a telephone call from him on Tuesday evening.

The two area residents flew to Salt Lake City to visit Mrs. Brown's brother, James Shrout, who was formerly employed at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory at Pinto and was transferred to Utah.

Powell reportedly had purchased a car with the check, which amounted to $549.90 and was drawn on the Farmers and Merchants Bank of Keyser, W. Va., with insufficient funds in the bank.
